THE GREEK IDEAL

First among men to create and believe in the ideals that gave birth among western civilization were the Greeks. Though the span of their history was brief, every aspect of our society bears their indelible stamp. Our sciences, literature, fine arts, concepts of democracy, and all our theories concerning humanity have their roots in Greece. Woven throughout the tapestry of our life at Cheltenham are the durable threads of these Greek ideals. We, as students, are striving toward the fundamental Hellenic ideal: to have each person develop his "arete" or inborn capacity to the zenith—physically, morally and intellectually. To the glory and wonder that was Greece, we dedicate this EL DELATOR, hoping that we can ultimately attain the heights of perfection toward which the Greeks so ardently strove.

THE PURSUIT OF

Behold the inquisitive mind—it was the Greek's; we are convinced it is ours. The Greeks taught us the value of investigation, the satisfaction of discovery; Cheltenham students are free to think, to know the satisfaction resulting from the search for truth. Like the Greeks, we are dedicated to the pursuit of knowledge. We continue to explore its labyrinth, to investigate every facet of our existence.

KNOWLEDGE

"There is only one good, namely knowledge; and only one evil, namely ignorance."

Socrates

THE QUEST OF DUTY

Ancient Greeks emphasized the importance of duty in their daily lives and stressed both personal and civic responsibility. Here at Cheltenham responsibility and maturity have become by-words among the students. The sense of duty is reflected in all of our individual and group activities which include student government, scholarship drives, publications, athletics, drama productions, . . . In all that they undertake, Cheltenham students pursue the Greek adage that anything worth doing is worth doing well.

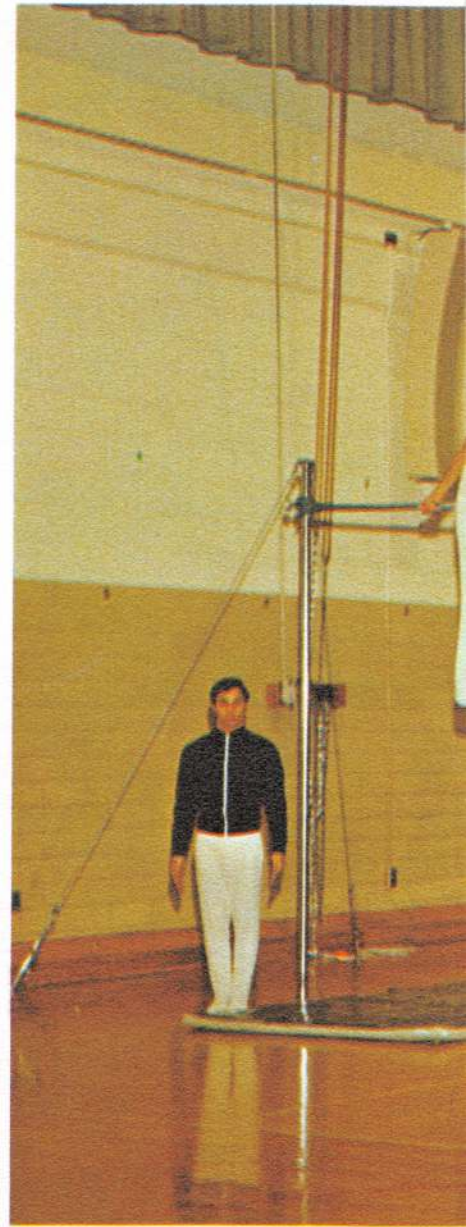

"It is not his rank or riches, but his ability to do valuable service to the state that makes a man eligible for a public office."

Thucydides

THE DISCIPLINE OF

"Our love of the things of the mind does not make us soft."
Aristotle

PHYSICAL PERFECTION

Continuing in the Greek tradition, Cheltenham has given equal respect to mental and physical stamina. Although the development of intellect remains of key importance, the competitive spirit is not confined to dialogues of thought. Cheltenham provides various types of athletic activity, giving a myriad of olympic opportunities for individual prowess and progress. The goal of training the body to perfection is characteristic of both classical Greece and Cheltenham.

THE JOY OF LIVING

The undeniable pleasure of being alive seemed to be everywhere in Athens; it can still be sensed in Cheltenham's atmosphere—a heritage from the spirited Greeks, who believed in delving into life wholeheartedly and enthusiastically. They regarded the privilege of living as a "give and take" situation—hard work to construct a better world. The reward they reaped was immeasurable pleasure and satisfaction in creating and accomplishing. Cheltenham High School exhibits the same potential for thorough enjoyment of all the elements of life—enthusiasm, achievement, friendship, challenge, pride. . . . The satisfactions of life explored are still the harvest of the Greek spirit.

"He only lives, who living enjoys life."
Menander

"MY FAIR LADY"

EXPRESSION OF SELF

Pop art, Panther parties, musicals, mini-skirts, and graffiti are modern manifestations of the Greek ideal for self-expression. Our charisma, like theirs, needs an outlet. Within Cheltenham, the desire to write, to debate, to paint, to perform, and to create remains alive today as an inspiration for our own search toward self-expression. These classic desires continue to be powerful underlying forces in the microcosm of Cheltenham.

"Painting is silent poetry; poetry is painting that speaks."
Simonides

"WE ARE GREEKS"

"Greece . . . what is it that it does to one? The secret is that it belongs to all of us—to us of the West. We've learned to think in its terms, and to live in its laws. It's given us almost everything that our world has that is worthwhile: truth, straight thinking, freedom, beauty. It's our second language, our second line of thought, our second country. We all have our own country—and Greece."

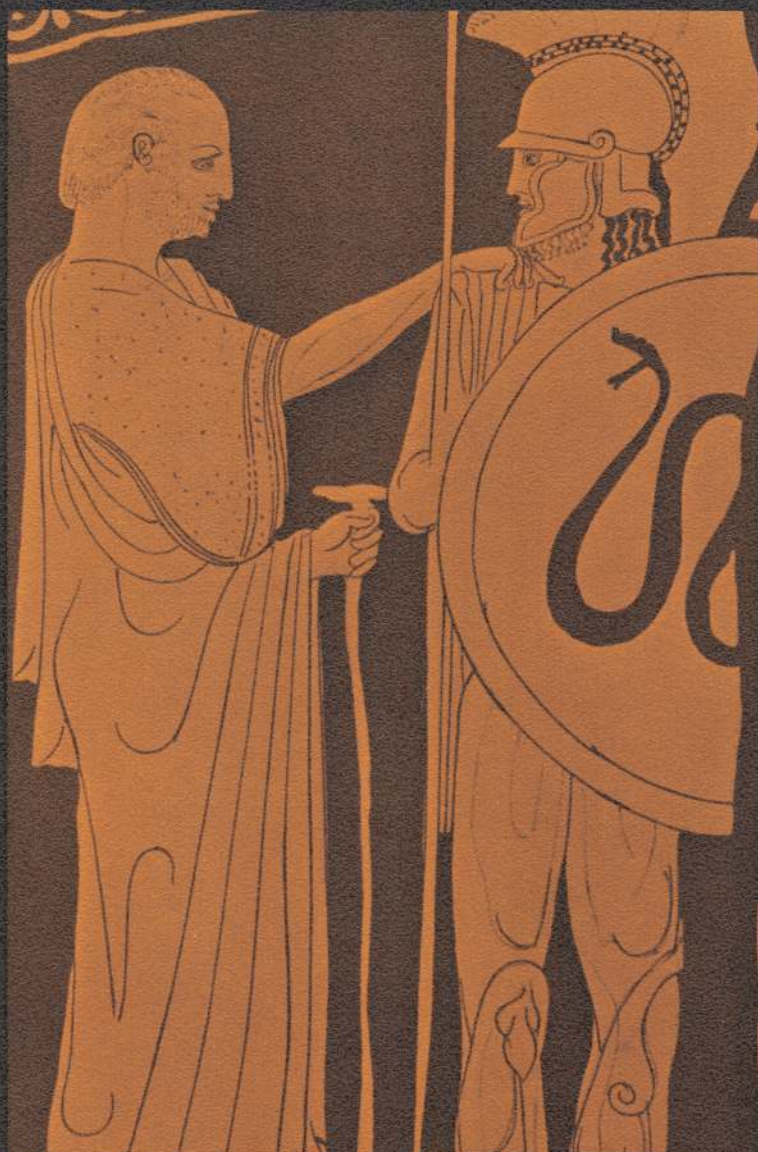

—Mary Stewart

MENTORS

What do Greek instructors and teachers at Cheltenham have in common? Their methods and philosophies may differ, yet both have seen the necessity to discuss the problem of human existence. "Ask questions, seek answers!" These words have echoed from the Greek forum to the Cheltenham classroom. Cheltenham's mentors continue in the spirit of Socrates and his disciples by urging their students to question those things taken for granted in order to produce the self-confrontation inherent in the truly educated man. The Greek teacher impressed upon his students the value of rhetoric and the importance of self-expression; manifested in the recitations and debates conducted here at Cheltenham are these same underlying objects—the truly educated man who can function successfully not only with his peers but also within his own society.

Innovator foresees expanding horizons in education

Nine local citizens of broad and varied experiences, background, interests and abilities administer Cheltenham Township's educational needs with a $7 million budget paid by 40,000 inhabitants. Elected by their peers, they uphold the trust placed in them by maintaining up-to-date, modern, clean and well-equipped schools staffed by capable professionals.

Behind the educational policy and planning of the curricula moves the Director of Secondary Education, the educationally renowned Mrs. Frances R. Link. Awareness of modern social problems, up-dating current studies, planning new curriculum developments and, in short, expanding the horizon are a few of the many responsibilities of this educator. Her philosophy is reflected in the question often asked students, "How rich can we make education for you?" On Mrs. Link's future agenda are an expanded humanities curriculum, computer-aided instruction, and renewed emphasis on the individual student to develop his potential to the fullest.

Mrs. Frances Link, Director of Secondary Education, enjoys a brief repast with Mrs. Mary Huzzard.

Dr. Ross M. Gill relinquishes mantle of leadership

For more than two thousand years Western man has been hearing the call to significance. Each man has responded to that call in his own way and degree, but few have succeeded where success may well matter most—in the lives and spirits of other human beings. Dr. Ross M. Gill can justly savor such success as he lays down the gavel of leadership for a much-deserved retirement after forty years of active service to the young people of the states of New Jersey and Pennsylvania. This service began as a teacher in 1928 in Ambridge, Pennsylvania, and ends after ten years service as Superintendent in 1968 in Cheltenham Township.

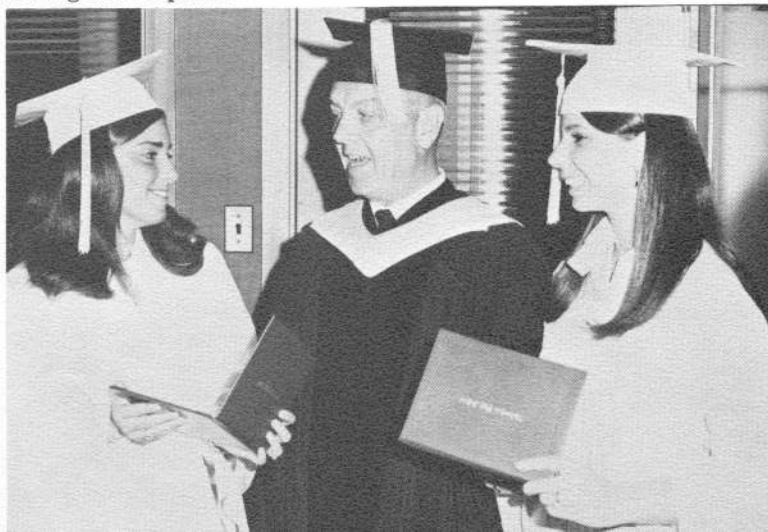

Within this latter period, Dr. Gill has been instrumental in many noteworthy improvements in the educational climate of this community. As the population of Cheltenham Township has expanded, so have its educational environments, techniques and opportunities. Enumeration could not do them justice. With the warmest gratitude and the best of wishes, the EL DELATOR and the student body of Cheltenham High School salute Dr. Ross M. Gill and appreciate the reflections on the educational process contained in his final letter to the 1968 graduating class.

“A good education turns students on so that they can respond effectively to the world. When you first started to go to school your appetite for learning was great. Yet, too many people lose their zest with the passing years, and the school is to some degree responsible. Teaching can be deadly—like digging a well; but good teaching is more like unearthing a spring. You, the student, also have a responsibility. Think of the joys that accompany life, living, and work. It is not hard work that is dreary; superficial work is.

“Producing something worthwhile leads to satisfaction and happiness. Absolute insistence upon all or nothing does little to improve things on this troubled planet. Seek a balance between maintaining your principles and insisting on them absolutely in the grubby, day-to-day business of living and working as honorably as you can, without self-delusion and without despair.

“Accentuate the pleasant side of your activities. Make yourself needed, important and valuable. Work faithfully each hour of each day. The results can be safely left to themselves, and you can be certain that you will wake up some fine morning to find yourself one of the competent ones of your generation.”

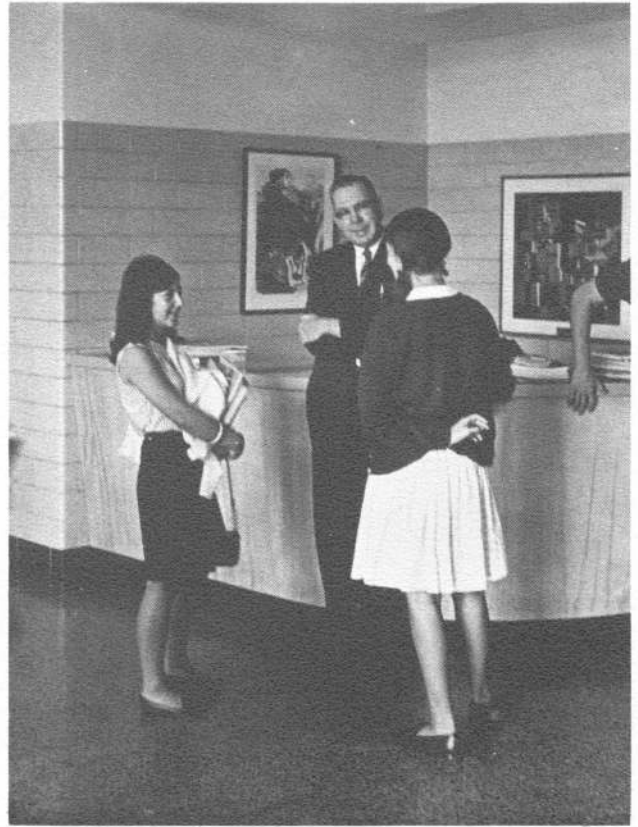

Dr. Gill extends congratulations to Sue Cohn and Lynne Ostroff on receiving their diploma.

Men of good cheer! Dr. Keim and Mr. Guarneri enthusiastically follow the progress of CHS athletic competitions.

Dr. Keim enjoys the opportunity of meeting with CHS parents at the Home and School Tea for the faculty.

An informal chat in the halls keeps our Principal informed of students' views and problems.

The annual Senior Morp finds Dr. Keim signing autographs for Beth Fagan, Beth Wisnoff and Bob Weinman.

Dr. Keim advises seniors to search for Greek ideal

Dear Members of the Class of 1968:

I have watched with interest as your yearbook staff has developed the theme "We Are Greeks, All of Us!" The ancient inhabitants of the Peloponnesus and the surrounding area were a unique and fascinating people. For centuries that part of the world had known civilized peoples, some quite highly civilized; yet the Greeks emerged as a vastly different type of people. They were not numerous, not very powerful, not very well organized, yet they had a totally new conception of what human life was for, and demonstrated for the first time the infinite realm of the human mind. It was in matters of the mind that the Greeks were unique. Their brief civilization is a golden sunbeam breaking through the darkened windows of history.

It was, however, in the area of government that the Greeks made their greatest contribution. The Hellenes thought of themselves as free men. State affairs were public affairs. The Greek was ruled by a known law which respected justice. The Greek term "eleutheria" —of which "freedom" is only an incomplete translation—was much more than freedom from slavery; it included a total concept of the place of man. The Greeks believed that any obeisance was an affront to human dignity. Even to the gods the Greeks prayed like men, erect; yet they knew as well as any the difference between the human and the divine. The Greek knew that he was not a god, but he was at least a man, and as a man he was free and obligated to strive for the perfection of the human mind and spirit.

Your theme "We Are Greeks, All of Us!" gives to each member of the Class of 1968 a directive and challenge. Your productive and creative lives lie ahead. You, like the Greeks, are free individuals—free to continue to perfect yourselves and to push on in the search for beauty and human perfectability. Yet like the Greeks, you must preserve your freedom at all cost. "Make Yourselves Greeks, All of You!"

Sincerely,
EDWIN B. KEIM

Council of 3 govern Cheltenham populace

Within the framework of the school-state, the orderly processes of day-to-day administration confront Mr. Joseph F. Guarneri. These processes must function smoothly, maintaining that even flow that makes a school endure. Mr. Guarneri's manner fortifies him with accurate information in developing a good teaching schedule for the staff and adjusting student schedules for most effective learning. He oversees the school district relationship with the Area Technical School and administers the operation of the school club program which, under his supervision, has shown continued growth and variety each year. The task of assembling class rank data, distributing report card marks, and planning mid-term and final examination schedules are just part of his manifold responsibilities as Vice-Principal of Cheltenham High School.

Mr. Joseph Guarneri, Vice-Principal.

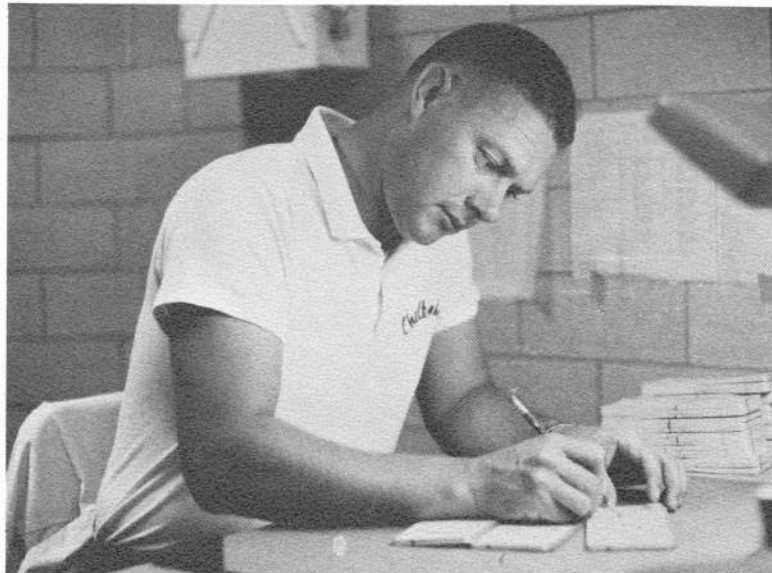

Mr. Wilbur Lehman, Vice-Principal.

Supervising the citizenship of any state is a difficult assignment, for censors throughout history have never been truly benevolent as far as the citizenry was concerned. However, in the hands of Mr. Wilbur Lehman, citizenship with all its rights and responsibilities—and disciplines—is placed first on the student-citizen. Here is where the training begins. Although this is a full-time responsibility within itself, Mr. Lehman also directs the athletic program of the school and that of the community. Lastly, school safety—from fire and civil defense drills to the normal flow of student traffic in the halls and on the parking lot—completes Mr. Lehman's contributions to the Cheltenham school-state.

Attendance—a primary responsibility of the student in the school-state—can pose endless problems, but with the invention of the telephone and the assistance of Mrs. Kotzen, such problems do not exist for Mr. Robert Trimble, who maintains an accurate record of the daily whereabouts of the Cheltenham Panther or Pantherette. Aside from this duty, Mr. Trimble also administers to the sick needs of the teachers by providing capable substitutes to function in their place. Aside from maintaining a complete textbook inventory and serving as chairman of the assembly program, he also functions as the Department Chairman of Boys' Physical Education.

Mr. Robert Trimble, Administrative Assistant.

BAKCHANALS

The Greeks made a subtle distinction between a good man and a good life. A thing was good in their view if it fulfilled the possibilities of manhood in certain established directions. From the time of Homer, it could be said that a good man is one who excels in all the qualities which a heroic age demands of its great men. The Greeks felt that man was not free to fashion his own destiny, but that, given his destiny he should make the most of himself.

This standard has become an integral part of American democracy, and is studied by each student in our school. Great value is placed at Cheltenham not only on achievement in academic studies, but also on talent in the fields of athletics, music, drama, and literary writing. One hour each week is set aside for clubs to stimulate and develop individual interests. Every afternoon students are also given the opportunity to involve themselves in various activities. Just as the Greeks strove to develop a balance between intellectual and physical pursuits, so we in Cheltenham endeavor to create full human beings and healthy members of society.

Student Council arbitrates affairs of state

Class of '68 presents Student Council officers. Hal Shanis, Treasurer; Stuart Sarshik, President; Andy Goldman, Vice-President; Adena Greenberg, Secretary.

The first of many problems faced by Cheltenham's democratic society was a traffic jam. It responded to the convergence of students on the stairways in the new wing by making one stairway up only, and the other down only. Thus began the functioning of Student Council led by Stuart Sarshik, Andrew Goldman, Adena Greenberg, and Hal Shanis. Football season followed and ended with a rain-soaked Abington game. Despite the power of the Olympian gods, Abington week continued as planned. Meanwhile, Student Council launched the "Battle of the Classes" in the Student Ticket Drive. One hundred dollars was awarded to the class of '70 for its outstanding victory with its 97% participation.

Always looking for new ideas, Student Council found one and decided to arrange an exchange with fifteen neighboring schools. Other projects equally successful were the United Fund Drive, VISA, the Faculty Christmas Party, and the College Conferences.

Second semester promised more FUN for everyone. Wrestling and basketball brought honor and fame to Cheltenham's world of renown. We placed first in the league for both of these sports and our Panthers went on to defeat Woodrow Wilson at the Palestra. Cheltenham spirit, pride and participation in all activities were at an all-time high this past year. Juniors welcomed exchangees from Bradenton, Florida, a big event at Cheltenham. Not forgetting its community obligation, Student Council organized the Student Service Project designed to help underprivileged children in the area.

Orchestra invokes muse for instrumental inspiration

Ancient Greeks considered music most important in their arts. In the same tradition, the Cheltenham band and orchestra has complimented music marching with their instrumental talent by enriching and entertaining Cheltenham audiences. Following standards of their pied piper, Mr. Glen Derringer, they have developed new methods of marching and music presentation. Using vibrant, quick stepping march arrangements in conjunction with popular music selections, the band overcame its small size during the football season. The band also aroused community spirit in the annual Veteran's Day Parade.

After football season, the band and orchestra combined to perform during the March Musicale and Spring Music Concert. The concert season also included a tour of the junior high circuit.

The Cheltenham orchestra is comprised of the most talented string players and the finest musicians from the band. Mr. Henry Williams, director, creates a versatile and unusual organization. During the Holiday Music Program, Spring Music Festival and commencement exercises, the orchestra played selections ranging from traditional to the most contemporary.

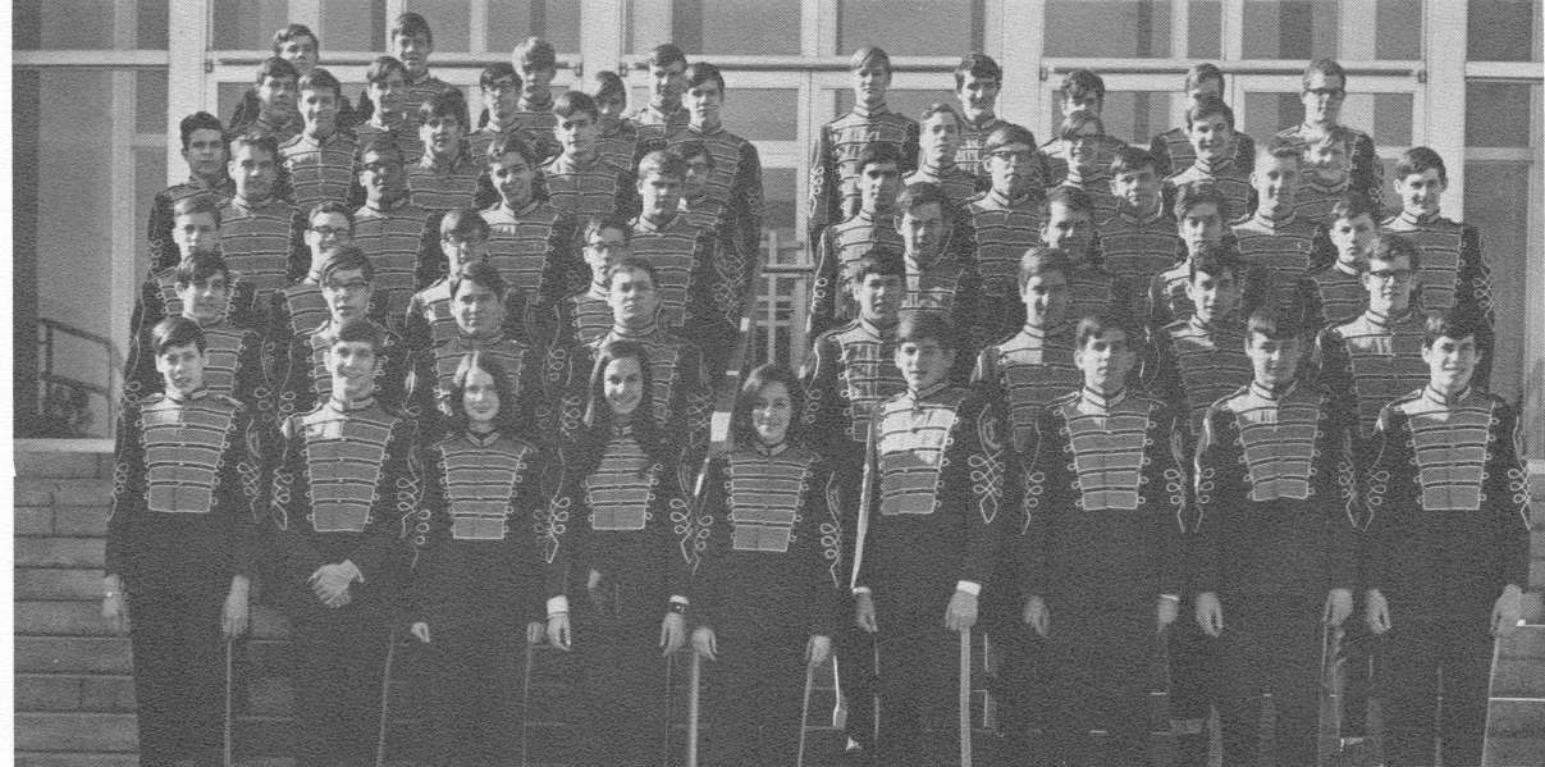

Conductor Henry Williams expresses his disbelief at cacophony issuing from the violin.

Chelt's soul permeates choral music scene

"Music washeth away from the soul the dust of everyday life." So sayeth the prophets . . . and so singeth the choral groups of Cheltenham High School. Under the superior direction of Miss Kay Dubie, musical work has reached a new height of excellence this year: a sixteen member representation in District Chorus; an ensemble show that brings alive the wonders of Rogers and Hammerstein; a choir filled with enthusiasm and excitement at the discovery of music; and a girls' chorus becoming acquainted with the first thrill of choral singing.

More has been learned, however, than mere rote of music; the soul and essence of music itself have introduced the students to a new means of expression that will brighten their outlook and lighten their lives.

Musical virtuosos honored with district recognition

As a challenge to gifted students, Cheltenham's music department enables talented singers and instrumentalists to perform in district, regional, and state music festivals. Prospective participants in the district choir, band, and orchestra auditioned earlier this year for positions in the groups. Following their selection as participants, the students attended their respective concerts. All of the members have discovered that performing in the district groups has been an enlightening musical experience, for they acquired fine style and tonal quality.

Collegiate sages reveal passport to academic future

It was the custom in the Greek society for the youth to spend hours of each day listening to forums conducted by their elders. From the sages' experience, these pupils gained insight into their future roles as citizens. Cheltenham students have felt the need for guidance by graduates, and on December 21, Student Council organized a college conference.

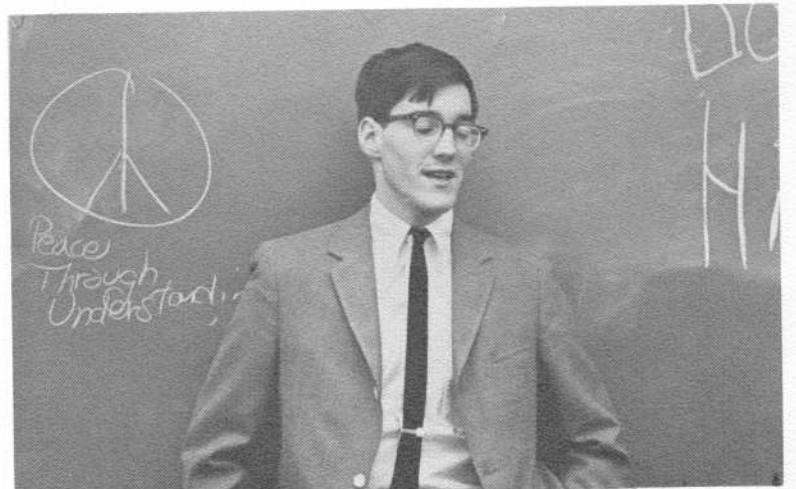

The conferences provided an opportunity for students to acquire firsthand information concerning the more personal aspects of college life from freshmen. The representatives, from forty colleges and universities, discussed campus life, the academic workload, dormitory conditions, and expenses.

"So I didn't make the basketball team—it doesn't mean the work is too hard." Jeff Sunshine comments on academic pressure at George Washington.

"Well I certainly didn't get in on an athletic scholarship." Scott Gardner points out Penn's procedures.

"They have a wonderful R.O.T.C. program at Lafayette! You can even learn how to talk with your eyes closed." Charles Liggett expounds on special educational advantages.

"And if you go to Antioch, you'll be able to dress like this too!" David Hergesheimer hoots about college life.

"Clockwise, three inches to the right is third gear." Fred Dimmer demonstrates his skill in driving foreign cars to Roberta Caplan and Janet Fleet.

"Repeat after me: Money is the root of all evil." Betsy Farb and Panther staff ponder financial difficulties.

Having provided a forum for the writer and artist of Cheltenham High School, the Panther magazine has enabled these inspired students to express their pent up emotions, their diversified opinions; simply to express themselves. After much scrutinizing and criticizing, the club, from which a staff was chosen, selected the best short stories, poetry, photographs, and drawings which the students submitted.

Under the influence of the discouraging adage, "Money does not grow on trees," the Panther, with Spartan effort, overcame financial deficiencies. Betsy Farb and sponsor Mrs. Harriet Goodheart led the staff by appealing to the student body for mass subscriptions. As a result, the publication of this year's issue was assured. Therefore, only petty problems plagued the Panther. "Does poetry really belong in a literary magazine?" "How can I check in the dictionary the spelling of a word I can't even spell?" "Does a check mean that it's accepted or rejected?" "That happens to be the best poem I've ever written." "What do you mean we have a deadline tomorrow? . . ."

Cheltonian enlightens city-state with provocative news

Linda Dobb, Miss Linda Ensseler and colleagues meditate over an editorial problem.

"Take this down, Miss Wolf. . ." Editor-in-Chief Kenny Martin dictates to typist Barbara Wolf.

"I'll tell you why it's unbuttoned." Larry Widman reveals top secret to Diane Judson and Nancy Levine.

"I wonder what the 'Times' uses for filler," ponders journalists Jeff Rush, Jeff Mayer, Richard Kaplan, and Mark Rosenberg.

"It's a pity to censure this hot line," lament Business Manager Bob Sheetz and Diane Judson.

A well-informed public is essential to the smooth functioning of any democratically oriented society. Steeped in the hellenistic tradition of recording and circulating news, the Cheltonian keeps the student body constantly aware of the issues of the day as they relate to Cheltenham. Under the guidance and direction of Editor-in-Chief Ken Martin and faculty sponsors Mr. Edward Bringham and Miss Linda Ensler, the staff strives to uphold journalistic ideals in their loftiest forms. Weekly assignment meetings and long hours after school have brought Cheltenham students such enlightening features as "Senior Spotlight" and "Athlete of the Month." Editorials, sports and the arts are adequately covered in every issue. This year, in an effort to encompass larger and more representative segments of the student population, the Cheltonian has broadened its scopes and expanded its coverage to include new items within its annals.

Besides serving as an accurate account of the year's happenings, the Cheltonian has acted as a focal point for opinion and criticism. Students have been encouraged to respond to and comment on controversial matters.

Freedom of thought, cherished by the Greeks, is valued just as dearly today. The Cheltonian has proven to be a sound vehicle for the expression of this thought.

"Ah come on, it's not that bad!" Marsha Kaufman expresses dissatisfaction with Carol Rosenberg's caption choice as staff members watch the fun.

"What's another word for the picture of the Pantherettes anyone going to the cafeteria to alphabetize the index for dinner at Ho Jo's we need a Thesaurus to help me find the cropping wheel?" If one had ever listened in on a yearbook meeting, this is what he would have heard as copy writers, photographers, section editors, and staff slaved for endless days and many long nights, struggling to meet the insurmountable deadlines. We are now a family. Our great Southern leader and his favorite sons, Bill and Randle, have kept the homefires burning brightly this year. Our homemakers now know the fastest route to the cafeteria, our photographers have come to respect the mathematical genius of the picture-cropping experts, and our copy staff can turn out a witty paragraph in a single club period—almost. It is, therefore, with pride and relief that the EL DELATOR staff bequeaths this annual record of 1967-68, and so leaves its mark in the continuum of Cheltenham High School.

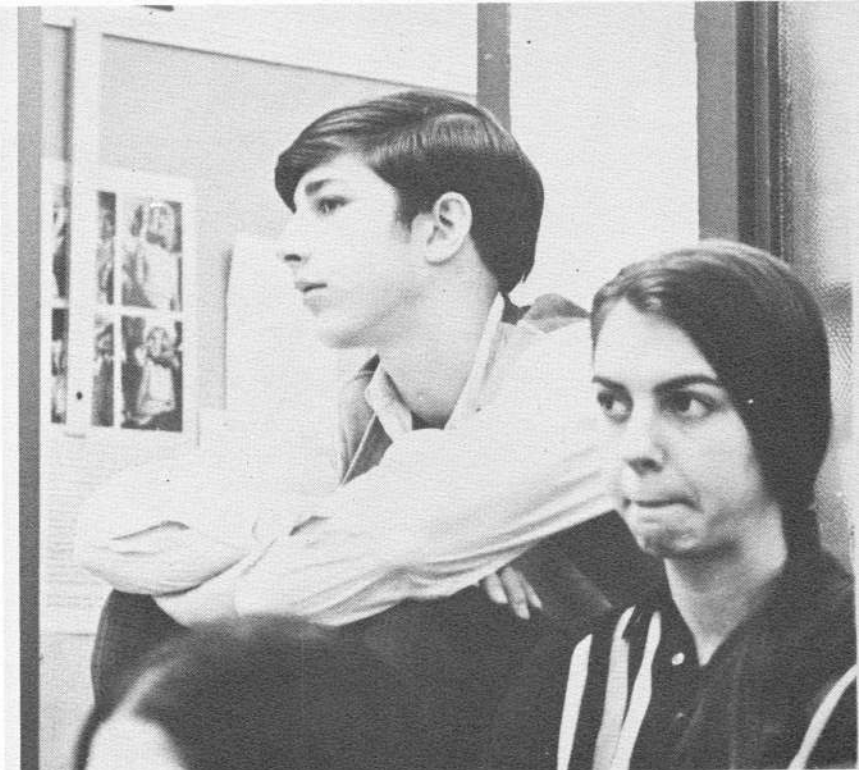

Classical theme inspires El Delator to Olympian heights

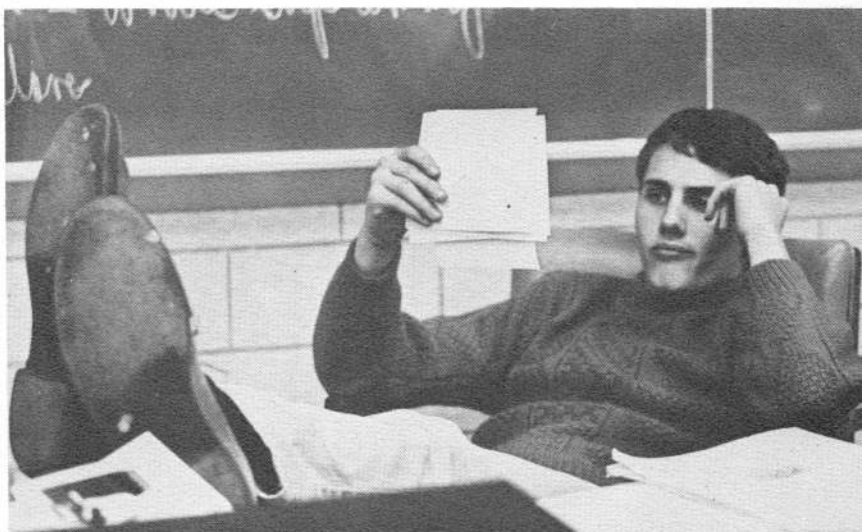

"Humm, six cubits by ten cubits—Right!, what's a cubit?" Layout editor Robby Steinhart crops around.

"My forehead is near-sighted, what's yours?" Julie Kurtz and Sherry Wolf discuss optical defects while creating copy.

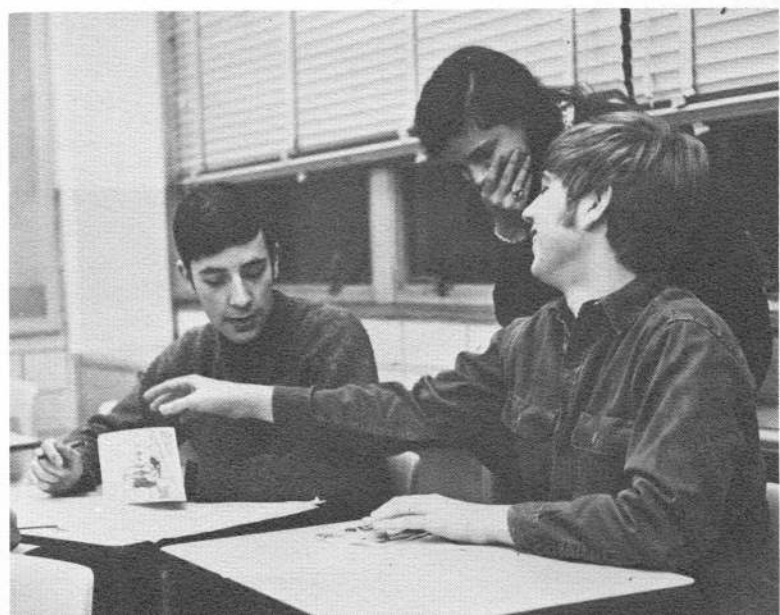

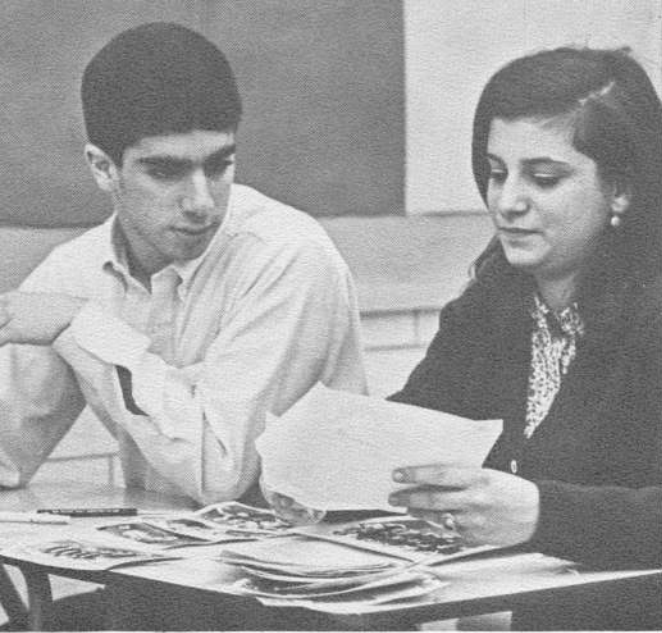

Nick Lindabury and Ellen Sichel rack their brains for a headline during heated moments of midnight yearbook conference.

"How in the world did they get that mug shot?" Yearbook pictures perplex associate editor Randle Loeb.

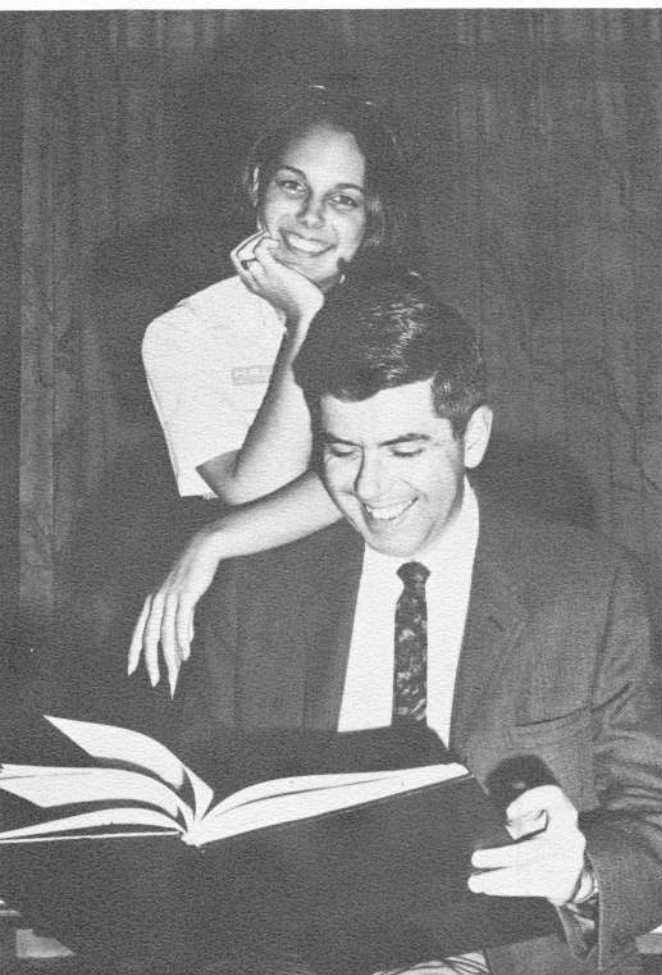

Creating captions can be a taxing job as Jim Gritz tosses a photo to Bob Freedman to be identified.

Solid Gold Cadillac rolls into spotlight

In an effort to recreate the catharsis of Greek comedy, Cheltenham High School's thespians presented The Solid Gold Cadillac on November 3, 4, 1967. Written by George S. Kaufman and Howard Teichmann, The Solid Gold Cadillac is a humorous play depicting the corrupt exploits of four executive officers of a big business corporation, General Products. After the upstanding president of this company resigns in order to accept a political position in Washington, the executive board's swindling and other foul practices reach a peak.

These villains, however, are not immune to catastrophe, which in this play is in the form of one Mrs. Laura Partridge. What starts out as innocent questioning of company policy leads Mrs. Partridge to the conclusion that the corporation is being manipulated for personal gain. She becomes the champion of the common stockholder, and eventually, by proxy vote, succeeds in wresting control of the company away from the avaricious directors. Virtue triumphs; the former president regains his post; and the infamous Mrs. Partridge humbly assumes the role of the entire executive board.

The board of directors (S. Gross, K. Nerenberg, A. Schloss, and R. Norberg) try to appease Mrs. Partridge with a nominal sum of $150 per week.

"Now where did I put them?" Society Reporter Amy Gerber ponders the whereabouts of her shoes.

Mrs. Partridge (Barbara Myerson) comforts her secretary (Karen Collier) in a moment of distress.

"Good Heavens!" Bob Dumin poses as the perturbed Edward L. McKeever, former chairman of the board.

"That's only 32 times," secretary (Aly Lent) comments while coaching Edward L. McKeever (B. Dumin) in his calisthenics.

Warren Gillie (Andy Schloss) presents the annual business reports to the stockholders.

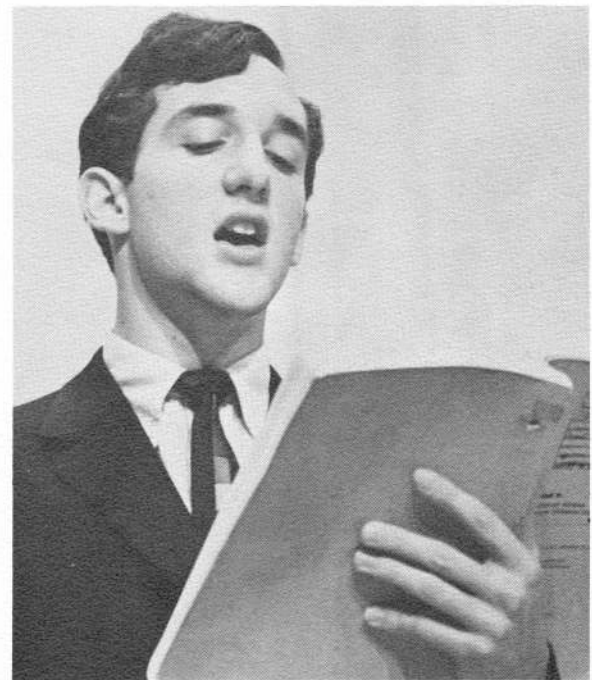

Clifford Snell (Robert Norberg) and T. John Blessington (Steven Gross) sternly admonish Mrs. Partridge (Barbara Myerson) for her meddling into corporation affairs.

"And I'll receive $100,000 a year," reports Clifford Snell (Robert Norberg) in his stockholder's report.

"I'll hold my breath until you give it to me!" warns Mrs. Partridge (Barbara Myerson) at a stockholder's meeting.

"Very nice." Mr. Blessington appears pleased by Sandy Cox's antics.

Public Relations coordinates Cheltenham rumors

When the Greeks wanted to send news to their neighbors they had to use rummers, people who carried their messages on foot. Cheltenham students are more fortunate—they have the Public Relations Committee. The PR staff is responsible for informing the school community of activities taking place at Cheltenham. They send news releases on a weekly basis to nine local newspapers. These releases concern Student Council activities, curriculum changes, innovations in school life, and special events in the lives of Cheltenham students. The newspapers include The Breeze, The Times Chronicle, and the northeast sections of The Philadelphia Inquirer and The Evening Bulletin.

The Greeks could only spread their news in words, but Public Relations has a fine crew of photographers who help to show what is happening around CHS. Photographs of students at the center of school affairs and pictures from My Fair Lady have been published by many of the area papers.

In addition to newspaper releases, PR sends announcements on all paper drives, school plays, and other major activities to nine area radio stations. The bulletin boards on either side of the library are also products of the PR staff, displaying many of the articles published in recent weeks.

The Public Relations Committee is an integral part of school life, for it has established an important link between the school and the community. The residents of the area deserve to be informed of news from Cheltenham, and the messengers from the Public Relations committee have helped to bring them this news.

Scientific discussion and experimentation ennobled the heritage left by the ancient Greeks to future civilizations. Continuing in that trend, the Science Seminar at CHS enables interested students to come into contact with the various sciences: biology, chemistry, physics, mathematics, and the social sciences. Discussions vary considerably from cytogenetics to crime prevention. Eminent men and women of science do not attempt to indoctrinate the students in their particular fields of expertise. They do, however, attempt to give the listener the basic concepts of scientific research.

As the number of Science Seminar participants increased, the meetings were moved from the choral room to the spacious new theater. Programs are organized and directed by the Science Seminar Advisory Board which consists of students, teachers, and members of the scientific community. From the many varied topics presented this year, the members have had the opportunity to explore the many sociological and scientific changes within the past year.

Clubs provide forum for individual expression

Man is a social animal. As such, he must learn to live, work, and play with others. Such was life in ancient Greece; such is life at Cheltenham. CHS's club program, which meets every Wednesday, attempts to provide those experiences that help to perfect the human. Some clubs emphasize the development of the mind through thought and self-expression; others strengthen the body through physical activity; administrative clubs organize Cheltenham's student activities through homeroom representatives. CHS hopes to inspire the students to model themselves after the Greek scholar, athlete, and statesman. To express its Greekness, CHS offers the following clubs for its student body: Class Administration — Astronomy — Audio Visual Aids — Automobile Enthusiasts—Banking—Biology Research —Bridge — Calculus — Cheerleading — Cheltenaires —Chem Review—Chess—Civil Defense—Classical Music—Debate—Domestic Exchange—Driver Education—English Study—Fortran IV—Future Nurses—Future Teachers—Geometry Help—Gymnastics—Homemaking—Horticulture—Jewelry—Library Aides—Literary Magazine—Majorettes—Math Study—Merchandising—Mixed Ensemble — Newspaper — Public Relations — Radio—Rifle—Scenic Design—Science Research—Senior Guidance—Sewing—Sports in Season—Sketching & Creative Design—Social Science Research—Stamps & Coins—Studio Arts—Swimming—Technical Services—Track—Typing—Volleyball—Yearbook.

Cheltenham students look to the skies with a far greater wealth of information than did the Greeks, yet with the same fundamental curiosity. Utilizing the newly built planetarium, students learn to operate complex star-gazing apparatus and to construct their own instruments. Club members assiduously study ceiling projections and conduct follow-up seminars. The Astronomy Club aims to enlarge its conception and appreciation of the universe and its grandeur. "There, now its straight." Rebecca Beitch shows teacher's touch on FTA bulletin board.

Information obtained from lectures and films, and experience received from visits to educational institutions proved beneficial to the Future Teachers of America members. Trips to Beaver College, The School for the Deaf, and The School for the Mentally Retarded served to acquaint the girls with the general and specialized fields of teaching. Aside from the various trips, the club's activities included orphanage parties and our school's Faculty Tea. The FTA, in stressing a rewarding future in teaching, has adhered to the idea that teaching is an investment in people.

The soothing tones of classical music aid Kenny Miller's studying efforts.

Vicki Heinstein and Joanne Fine examine one of the many classical music albums available to the club.

Recent epicureans have been steeping themselves in the music of the Ancient Greeks. In today's popular music, each student unknowingly appreciates the lack of harmonic structure and the presence of certain semi-tones which characterize Greek music. Pythagorus discovered his famous theorem while studying the relationship between notes on a scale. Music and geometry have always been compatible. And so it is that Cheltenham's students can discover the symmetrical perfection of classical music while struggling with their math theorems. This music has blended the forces of drama and science, unifying study and music appreciation.

Fascinated by the unknown world of science, the Greeks explored the mysteries of chemistry. This fascination has not abated over the centuries as evidenced by the explorations of the present Chemistry Review Club at Cheltenham. Over the world of test tubes, flasks, and bunsen burners, members of the club, under the direction of alchemist Mrs. Carolyn Stokes, ponder the world of chemistry in order to supplement the knowledge they receive in their regular school subject. Modern chemistry involves not only experimental trials and errors but much exploration of modern math.

"Should Congress establish uniform regulations for criminal investigations?" This has been the trampoline upon which Cheltenham's mental gymnasts have exercised their argumentative character. This year's debating society, consisting of an eight man varsity team and an eight man junior varsity team, argued both sides of that question with area schools. In addition, the varsity entered the state competition.

During each club period, the junior members practiced their forensic skills under the scrutiny of the more experienced debaters. Having just completed a number of successful debates, the team hopes for an equally strong season next year.

Biologists probe the inner mysteries of life

Honors Biology Laboratory Assistants Club: P. Beach, B. Geggel, D. Goodman, Z. Schlaff, H. Geggel, D. Belmont, P. Mans.

Under Mr. Stamper's direction, the Honors Biology Laboratory Assistants Club focused its interests upon many areas in the field of biology.

The club's purpose is twofold: first to acquaint its members with the preparation and treatment of laboratory substances and second, to offer to its members opportunities for fascinating research projects. This year, the seven club members studied and maintained fresh and salt-water agraria, green house specimens and other living and prepared biological organisms. The club was also responsible for preparing materials for classroom use and for cleaning lab equipment.

Peace, the universal goal not only of the ancient Greek city-states but also of the modern world. Peace, the goal for which man strives. But peace of mind lies in readiness and creates interest in citizen's civil defense role. At Cheltenham, under the expert direction of Mr. Paul LaMorgia, students of the Civil Defense Club explore the nature of national survival in time of danger, while gaining insight into the legal and historical aspects of civil defense. The members training involves studying the construction of shelters, observing movies on various types of disaster, and planning community action in times of emergency.

"Pay up or else," warns Carol Meyer as Elena Barros looks on.

In order to preserve their knowledge, the Greeks erected libraries in all the cities they founded. Cheltenham students also cherish the use of libraries to further this erudition. Our library assistants comprise a group which aids the student body and faculty in expanding their learning experience. Sponsored by Miss Irene Gizinski, the group is responsible for locating desired books, and keeping the library neat, constructing bulletin boards and display cases, and maintaining a cheerful place in which to study. Activities such as field trips, a Valentine's Day Party and the publication of El Librarius, which is published by and for the library assistants, provide for the group's diversion from library chores.

Sketchers exhibit talent through creative designs

Creativity was probably one of the most important words to the Greeks. In their art, literature, music, and philosophy, the Hellenes stressed creative thinking. The members of the Sketching and Creative Design Club are encouraged to be equally creative and original in their artwork. Students are unlimited in their approach to explore art in sculpture, photography, literature, and architecture. Group discussions have enabled the students to express and understand their theory of the shape description. Through careful sketches and other art media, the members of the club have become original and creative artists.

The members also had the opportunity to practice basic exercises and skills acquired in their physical education classes. Under Miss Linda Lonsinger's sponsorship, the club members attained their goal to develop and maintain physical fitness and vigor.

Enthusiasm and eagerness to work were displayed by boys in the Gymnastics Club this year. Under the leadership of Mr. Len Depue, the club members pursued the Greek goal of muscular control and physical perfection. Utilization of diversified pieces of apparatus has enabled each boy to develop his muscular strength and to master gymnastic skills. Superior films were also employed to motivate the boys' talents. The physical dexterity which the members have achieved attests to the popularity and success of the Gymnastics Club.

Players bridge gap between mental dexterity and pleasure

Under Mrs. Grace Hurwitz's guidance, the new Advanced Bridge Club provides playing experience for those already proficient in the game. The members' achievement is measured against other members in games played with "prepared" hands. Like the Greeks, Cheltenham's bridge enthusiasts delight in competition and feats of skill.

A monopolizing queen . . . queen's bishop to rook 3 . . . a tempting king . . . a calculating move . . . check-mate!! For the past seven years, students who desired to master the skill of the game of kings and who strove for a disciplined mind, have elected the Chess Club. Each week, members of the club compete with each other to attain the goal of first place. This is accomplished through a numbers system whereby each person challenges the person with the number immediately preceding his. The winner and loser reverse ranks, until there eventually emerges a champion.

The ideals of a strong mind will prevail for those who will in future select the Chess Club.

How do you feel about the war in Vietnam? The Social Science Research Club this year was curious to know the student body's attitude toward the war. Hence, the club's ten members distributed their own opinion poll relating to Vietnam. The assembled information was processed and later evaluated. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Joseph Melrose, the club was taught to understand the procedure of researching the techniques of public opinion polls. Through such experience, the members acquired from their fellow students numerous opinions concerning international situations.

Lew Baum and Doug Lenat were the mentors of Cheltenham's Fortran IV Computer Programming Club. Lew is a University of Pennsylvania Computer Systems Programmer, and Doug is Beaver College Psychology Department's chief programmer.

Mathematicians learned how to program digital computer systems. The name Fortran refers to computer programming language. Members of the club were taught elements of the Fortran's language, and the capabilities of computers and programming logic. With this knowledge members wrote their own computer programs which were run on the University of Pennsylvania 360-65 computer. By the end of the school year, complex problems taken from current industrial and college research were solved with the use of computer programming.

Do you know how to compute the area of the Parthenon, or find the rate of acceleration of a moving chariot? The Calculus Club of Cheltenham offers to students the opportunity to delve into these fascinating problems of integration and differentiation, the major branches of calculus. Most of the club members are those who plan to take calculus in college, and desire some preparation.

Each student works at his own speed, using self-instruction books. Periodically, sponsor Mrs. Gold conducts Socratic discussions pertaining to interesting or difficult topics. ## Cheltenham gems design unique styles of jewelry

Jewelry fashioned by the Greeks was both delicate and intricate. Cheltenham's Jewelry Club, sponsored by Mr. Edward Hoopes, also strives to create fragile items of beauty. In their workshop experiences, the students perform with metal, a favorite material of the Hellenes. Like the Greeks, our artisans employ their creativity and imagination in designing their ornaments. The members of the club work individually to make original pieces of adornment which they may wear at their own leisure. Each craftsman feels that both the decorative item created and the immeasurable experience and pleasure received from the creation, are essential to the enjoyment of jeweled expression.

In Hellenic society, the home was an integral part of daily living. Following in this domestic tradition, the Homemaking Club endeavors to preserve the creative aspects of the household. These entail sewing, embroidering, knitting, crocheting, and designing toys. Proficiency is also developed in various household chores, such as ironing and mending. As was the case with the Greek mothers, the homemaking instructors of Cheltenham have made a fruitful attempt to train the girls in household operations. From the activities of the Homemaking Club, the members have acquired a personal sense of competence and efficiency.

Keys provide springboard for agile typists

Members of the Typing Club practice for speed and efficiency.

One basic problem faced the Ancient Greeks with reference to their discoveries: They invented faster than they recorded. Lacking a device which could register their findings quickly and efficiently, the Hellenes were 2000 years premature; the typewriter, such a device, was an invention of our time. Cheltenham students, however, also faced a problem: how to manipulate the machine. To remedy the situation, the Typing Class was created ten years ago. This year, under Mrs. Catherine Dudar's inspective eye, the club permitted students to improve their skill and enabled them to acquire greater speed and accuracy.

Directing traffic at Cheltenham in many ways parallels the problems encountered at the Parthenon. The ancient Athenian had to rely upon certain individuals to move the crowd up the hill of the Acropolis to designated areas. Times have not changed. To combat the mass confusion that descends upon the CHS parking lot in the morning also requires individuals devoted to the ideas of order, logic, and pressure. Under the gnashing-teeth direction of Mr. Charles Mehelich, the Car Patrol directs, coaxes, and orders hordes of students into parking spaces which are further from the school than their houses are from the respective bus stops. Likewise, at 3 P.M. the Patrol boys man their positions in the lot to alleviate the hurried exodus of traffic.

Audio Visual Technicians aid teaching techniques

During its long existence at Cheltenham, the Audio-Visual Aids Club has provided enrichment for the regular curriculum through the use of instructional media. After pursuing an intensive training course conducted by Mr. Robert Acker at the beginning of the school year, the members emerge as qualified operators of projectors and recorders. Through the club's efforts, the classroom teacher is able to bring alive his conceptions. When a teacher is struck with a creative idea, there is an available student capable of handling the technicalities.

Every Thursday and Friday the wonderful world of assemblies provides Cheltenham students with insight into the world of travel, music, drama, opera, and modern social problems. Early in the year all classes were involved in the problems of drugs and sex education through informative assemblies; discussions dealt with the manifold problems connected with these topics. Shortly thereafter, the Metropolitan Opera Guild, making its first performance in Pennsylvania, presented the "Barber of Seville" to the senior class. The sophomores and juniors enjoyed the Chrysler Corporation Presentation of "Music for Modern American" featuring the Spurrflows. A travelogue film of Canada explored its inland waterways and majestic beauty; a presentation of the "World of Rodgers and Hammerstein"; and the normal class and student council assemblies added zest to the routine day. Especially welcomed were the athletic assemblies and the yearly awards assembly.

February seventeenth marked the birth of the first Junior Prom ever to be held at Cheltenham. The Junior class officers, President Bill McKenna, Vice-President Alan Dayno, Secretary Barbara DeAngelis, and Treasurer Neal Goff, decided early in the year to change the Junior-Senior Reception, a senior-centered dance, to a Junior Prom, planned and held solely for the Junior Class. The cafeteria was magically transformed into a gambling casino complete with a canopy of streamers, balloon chandeliers, and an entranceway of four giant playing cards. The Mainliners provided music varying from popular to jazz tunes, and refreshments were served by mini-skirted sophomores dressed as cigarette girls. As the Junior Class Officers stood in a reception line and greeted their guests, they were proud and satisfied to realize that the Junior Prom would become a tradition in Cheltenham, a tradition initiated by the Class of 1969.

"Has anyone arrived yet?" The receiving line anxiously awaits guests to the festivities.

Cheltenham's traditional Domestic Exchange program was marked this year by a warm helping of hospitality and Florida sunshine. Thirty students from Manatee High School in Bradenton, Florida, met their Cheltenham exchangees in early February and braved the chill of the North to attend classes, tour our township, and visit the historical sites of Valley Forge and Philadelphia. After sledding and skiing on artificial snow at a Pocono resort, the Floridians got their first taste of the real thing when Wyncote was hit by an eight-inch blizzard. Undaunted by an increase in railroad rates and a last-minute strike by Florida teachers, the Cheltenham students made the trip South during Easter vacation. The events of the Bradenton-Cheltenham visits precipitated lasting friendships that made the sojourns enjoyable as well as instructive.

"And what I say is, them as pinched it, done her in," argues Eliza whose gutter dialect, to the horror of Higgins, monopolizes her speech.

"I want to be a lady . . ." explains Eliza to the understanding Pickering, played by Neal Goff.

Pygmalion presents theme for our "My Fair Lady"

In 1916 Bernard Shaw decided to transform into a play the mythical Greek legend of Pygmalion. The myth concerns a sculptor who creates from stone the image of his ideal woman. He works so proficiently that the statue comes to look human and is given a name—Galatea. Pygmalion loves his own work, and miraculously the form is also so pleasing to the goddesses that they give it the breath of life and enable the two to marry.

In Shaw's work, the linguist Henry Higgins takes a common flower girl from her gutter home and transforms her into a fashionable and beautiful lady by changing her speech. In the process he, like Pygmalion, falls in love with the girl, Eliza Doolittle. Unlike the mythical story, Higgins loses Miss Doolittle.

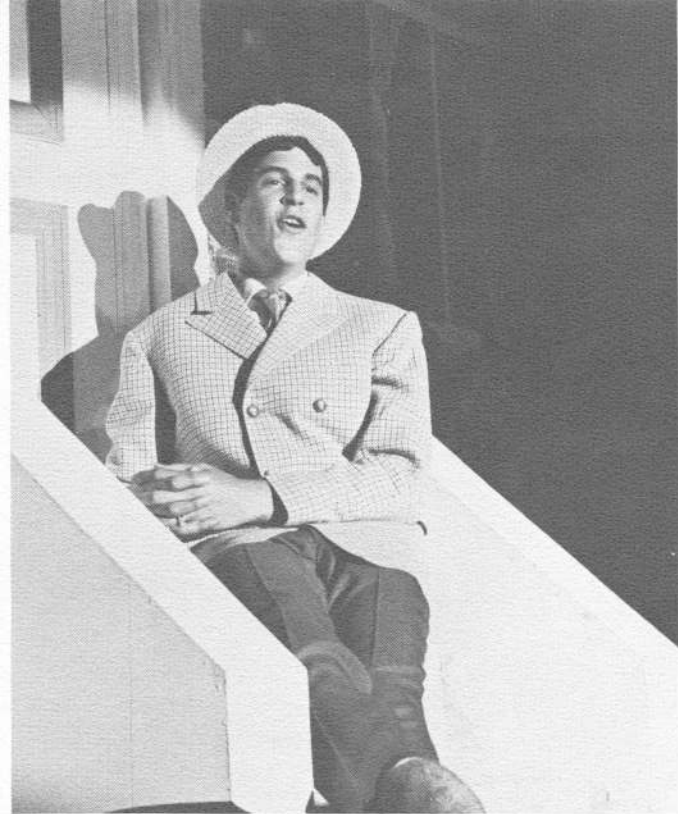

After Shaw's death, his play was adapted for the musical stage by Lerner and Loewe; their adaptation proved to be the longest running show on Broadway. In this form, Eliza's future is left to the imagination of the audience, but Lerner hints at a resolution closer to that of the original myth.

Alfred P. Doolittle, as portrayed by Robert Norberg, declares his last rights as a bachelor in his "Get me to the church on time."

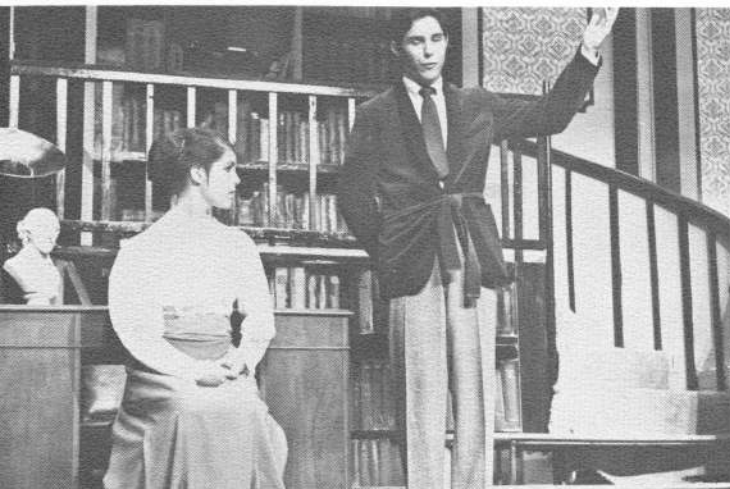

"Aw, come on, slip your ol' dahd 'alf a crown," begs Doolittle of Eliza, portrayed by Wendy Kelley.

Equalling the enormous task of shaping an unformed lump of clay into the womanly perfection of Galatea, Mr. Thomas Stretton and Miss Kay Dubie molded the diversified talents of Cheltenham thespians into a perfect production of "My Fair Lady." The opulence of the production was the work of various producers, Mr. Richard Green, Mr. James Rubillo, Mrs. Vita Solomon and Mrs. Kim Hurwitz. The house was full for all three performances with Wendy Kelley, Robert Dumin, Neal Goff, Robert Norberg, Janet Marshall, Dean Malissa, and Cindy Solot as the principal players aided by a cast of sixty-two.

Dean Malissa, as Freddy, shrugs off the world's criticism in his song, "On the street where you live."

"This is going to be ghastly," complains Higgins while attempting to teach Eliza the alphabet.

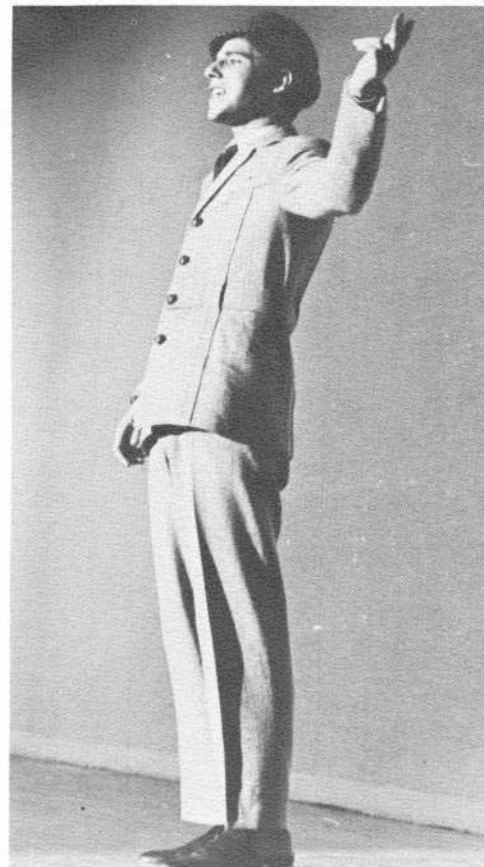

Company revels in pre-wedding celebration for Doolittle.

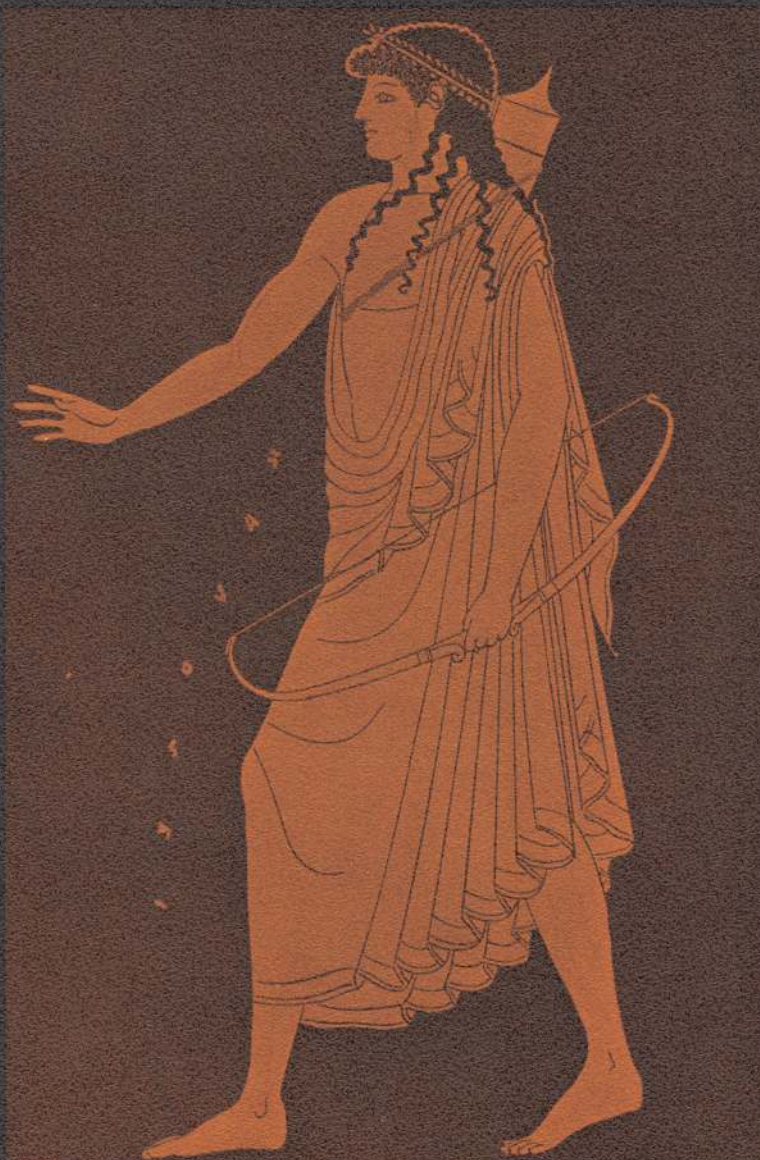

"What's to become of me?" frets Eliza after her return from the ball.

"I've grown accustomed to her face," admits Higgins, as portrayed by Bob Dumin.

OLYMPICS

Development of the total potential of both the mind and body were the founding principles of the Greek ideal. Here at Cheltenham athletics play a major part in building upon a student's mental and physical capabilities. Sports teach an athlete to think quickly while in competition. Strength, speed, endurance, co-ordination, flexibility, agility, and the spirit to win are all intrinsic to his full physical development.

Since the time of the Greek olympics, the realm of athletic competition has broadened to include a wide spectrum of physical activities. Cheltenham has retained the classical olympic sports of wrestling, gymnastics, and track and field as well as adding popular contemporary sports: football, soccer, swimming, hockey, basketball, baseball, lacrosse, golf, and swimming.

Opening the 1967 season with a 40-0 win over Dobbins, the Panthers knew they were going to pounce on their first winning season in three years. With precision tactics the Panthers won eight first downs and gained 281 yards rushing with scores, by the quarters, 6-20-6-8, totalling a 40-0 shut-out at the end of the game. Sophomore Joe Sciolla led the Panthers' charge with three touchdowns in his varsity debut. During the first quarter Chris Perry tore up the field with a 47-yard run and in the third period Joe Sciolla brought the fans to their feet with a 59-yard jaunt. Both runs hit paydirt. Defensively, the Panthers were really on the ball. Bernie D'Angelo proved this by stealing the ball from a Dobbins fullback and running it 23 yards for a touchdown.

The next week the Panthers continued their winning ways with a 38-7 rout of Methacton. Cheltenham capitalized on early Warrior miscues as Bernie D'Angelo intercepted a first period pass and charged 23 yards for a touchdown. On the first play of the Warriors' next series of plays, the alert Panthers recovered a Methacton fumble. They then proceeded to ramble 15 yards for another 6 points. The remainder of the game turned into a runaway as Benny Dempsey, in his first starting assignment of the year, tallied on two long runs. In the final period, Chris Perry took a screen pass from Tom Reifsnyder 37 yards to paydirt to cap the scoring.

At Norristown the Chelts engaged in a grueling defensive battle and emerged with a 7-0 victory. Cheltenham broke a scoreless tie in the third quarter when Benny Dempsey capped a 60 yard sustained drive with a two yard plunge into the end zone.

Friday, October 3, was truly an ominous day for Cheltenham when William Tennent inflicted the Panthers' first loss, 21-19. The Chelt offense failed to show the cohesiveness that it showed in its winning games. Fumbles and mechanical errors plagued the team throughout the game. Tennent stunned the confident Panthers by returning the opening kickoff for a touchdown; the rest of the game became an uphill contest. Highlights in the game for Cheltenham were Benny Dempsey's 35 yard scamper into the end zone climaxing a 65 yard drive in the second period, and Chris Perry's 60 yard T.D. ramble for the Chelts' second score. Failure to convert P.A.T.'s cost the Panthers a tie.

Against Upper Dublin, the Chelts staved off a fourth quarter Cardinal rally to eke out a 12-7 decision on the losers' field. The heavily favored Panthers turned gamblers in this contest choosing not to punt the entire game. In all, they converted 10 fourth down punting situations into eight first downs. Their unconventional tactics nearly backfired on them as the Panthers failed to make the sticks in the closing minutes. However, a stingy defense preserved the Cheltenham victory.

The following week, the Panthers entertained unbeaten Upper Merion. In the battle of the league leaders Upper Merion emerged victorious by a 41-14 count.

Ghosts eke out 6-0 victory over stubborn Panthers

In one of the most exciting games in years the Panthers dropped a 26-25 heartbreaker to Plymouth White-marsh. The spectacular offensive shown by both teams swung the lead back and forth. The Colonials drew first blood early in the first quarter but the Panthers fought gamely to earn a 12-7 lead at half time. The second half became an inferno of action as Cheltenham took a 25-19 lead with one minute remaining. The Colonials took the final kickoff and marched the length of the field, scoring with only three seconds left.

At Interboro the Panthers' dormant passing attack came to life as Cheltenham brought home a 20-0 non-league victory. The Chelts broke a sluggish first period stalemate when Tom Reifsnnyder scored on a ten yard sprint out, giving Cheltenham a 6-0 half time lead. In the second half the Panthers became a different ball club, coupling tough defensive play with a balanced offensive attack. The Chelts tallied fourteen points in the last two periods, the final score coming on a beautiful 36 yard bomb from Tom Reifsnnyder to Eric Matzkin.

On Saturday, November 18, the Panthers hosted Abington in the traditional match-up between the arch rivals. The Ghosts came into the contest with an impressive string of lop-sided league victories and were heavily favored to run the Panthers off the field. Rain, cold and strong winds hampered play throughout most of the first half. The game which nearly everyone thought would be a runaway, turned into a fierce defensive battle in which neither team could get its offense into gear. Abington knew it was in a ball game as the Ghosts took the field following a 0-0 half time score. The Suburban North champ finally managed to break the deadlock when they scored with 5:31 remaining, giving Abington a hard fought 6-0 triumph.

Tom Reifsnnyder, Bernie D'Angelo and Len Pelullo were cited as the outstanding players in the Abington game while Mark Mann, Benny Dempsey, D'Angelo and Pelullo were named to the All-Suburban All Star team.

Injuries hamper CHS Harriers in disappointing campaign

Warts under toenails, shin splints, and other knee injuries made for a harrowing season of disappointing losses this year for the Harriers. After dropping the opener to Springfield (34-23), the cindermen bounced back with a 22-34 romp over Dobbins. Throughout the rest of the season it became apparent that the gods, or at least Hermes, had deserted the Chelts. The remaining six meets were disaster as the Harriers dropped to Plymouth Whitemarsh (45-16), Norristown (47-15), Upper Merion (50-15), Upper Dublin (35-18), Abington (35-18), and Methacton (35-20). Pacing the team and making an outstanding showing throughout the season was Wes Beadling, followed closely by Sid Milkis, Craig Dobkins, and Hal Shanis. Wes Beadling was chosen by the team to be the recipient of the coveted Holden Award for outstanding performance and team spirit.

Rebuilt hockey squad suffers disappointing season

Despite fine coaching and supervision from Coaches Redford and Lonsinger, the Girls' Hockey Team fought valiantly, though unsuccessfully, for a winning season. Their first loss to Springfield did not deter their determination, nor their defeat at the hands of Upper Dublin. A grueling battle to a tie with Methacton was a high point of the season which had a record of 0-8-1. Subsequent losses were suffered at the hands of Abington, Upper Marion, Plymouth Whitmarsh and Norristown. These losses did not stop the team from selecting Patty Deisroth to receive the Holden Award for providing the spark and the spirit to a fighting team.

Encouraged by Coach LaMorgia's pizzazz and led by the spirited footwork of Norberg Kersten, Bob Rock, Eric Blumberg, and Larry Sichel, the Varsity Soccer Team stormed its way to a 9-3-2 season and a third place in league competition. The squad opened its season with a 4-game winning streak: Lower Moreland, 3-0; Lincoln, 4-0; Sun Valley, 1-0, and Upper Dublin, 3-2. After dropping a 0-2 decision to Methacton, the Panthers rebounded with a 5-1 rout over Chester, led by Norberg Kersten's amazing 4 goals in 2 minutes. The second half of the season found the Panthers losing to league champion Riley Township, 0-4, and runner-up Abington, 0-1, while bringing home victories against Plymouth Whitmarsh, Norristown, Chestnut Hill, and Wissahickon. The Soccer Team wound up with the best record in recent memory.

All Suburban honors were won by right wing Kersten, center forward Rock, fullback Blumberg, and left wing Sichel. The team selected Bob Rock as recipient of the Holden Award for exceptional skill and spirit in soccer.

Since the dawn of creation Cheltenham has never had a championship basketball team. But this year VICTORY was ours—Champions we are!

The campaign began on Tuesday, December 5, when a starting five consisting of seniors Bill Haff, Rich Raden, and Chuck Shechtman and juniors Craig Littlepage and Elliot Redman traveled to Lower Merion to meet the highly regarded Aces. The Chelts broke open a close game midway in the third quarter and won going away 62-55. Forward Chuck Shechtman led all scorers with 22 points. Following their auspicious debut the Panthers breezed to four consecutive home-court victories: an 87-43 rout of Ben Salem, a 77-46 afternoon trouncing of Dobbins, a 68-44 win over St. Thomas Moore, and a 70-52 decision over Northeast.

The unbeaten Chelts moved into their league opener with Plymouth Whitmarsh on December 22 with a perfect 5-0 slate. Once again the powerful Panthers pulled away in the 3rd period and became the first Cheltenham team to trip the Colonials in four years, 61-53. Bill Haff led a balanced Panther attack with 23 points.

Christmas vacation came and the Panthers entered the Coatsville V.F.W. Holiday Tourney. With center Craig Littlepage leading the way with 25 points, the Panthers disposed of first-round opponent St. Thomas Moore 61-52. The Championship game with West Chester developed into a tough contest but once again a balanced offense and tenacious man-to-man defense provided Cheltenham with a satisfying 60-52 triumph.

"Get up Craig!" The Panthers, via Craig Littlepage, control the opening tap at home versus Abington.

"Raden for two!" Rich Raden drives for the hoop in Norristown contest.

"Look, I said no girls 'til after the game!" Coach Westhead reminds his Panthers to keep their eyes on the basket.

"Dag, Man!" Littlepage leaps high for tap-in against Abington.

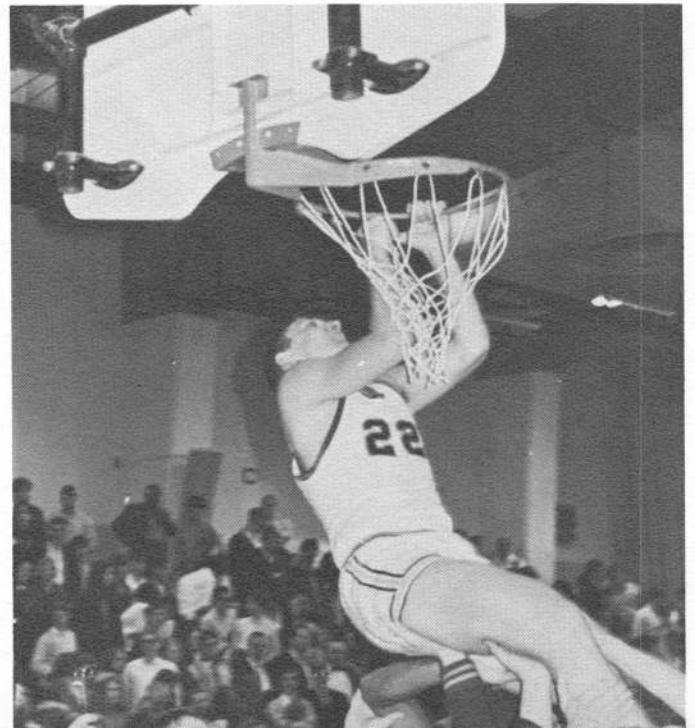

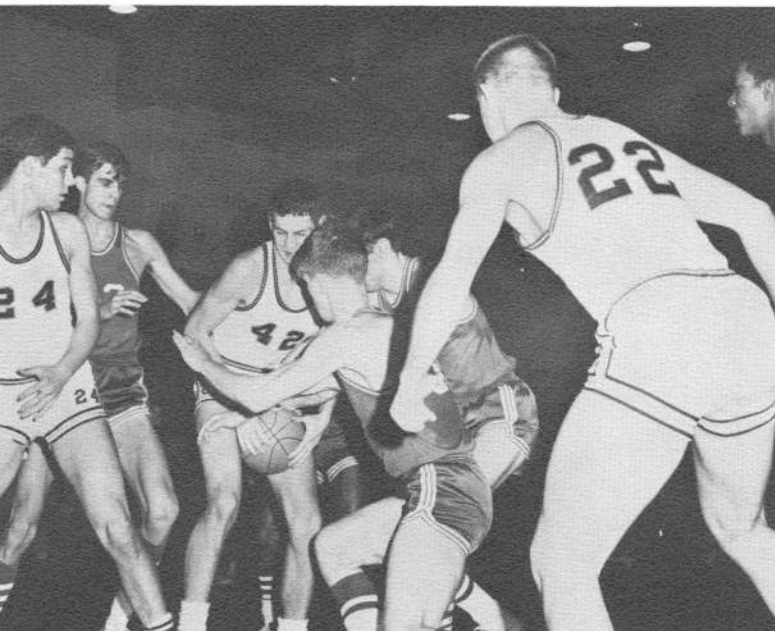

"Errr!" Bill Haff skids past Abington defender.

"Hands up!" Chelcts tighten defense around Ghost foes.

"It's mine!" Bill Haff trims the net following league-clinching Abington victory.

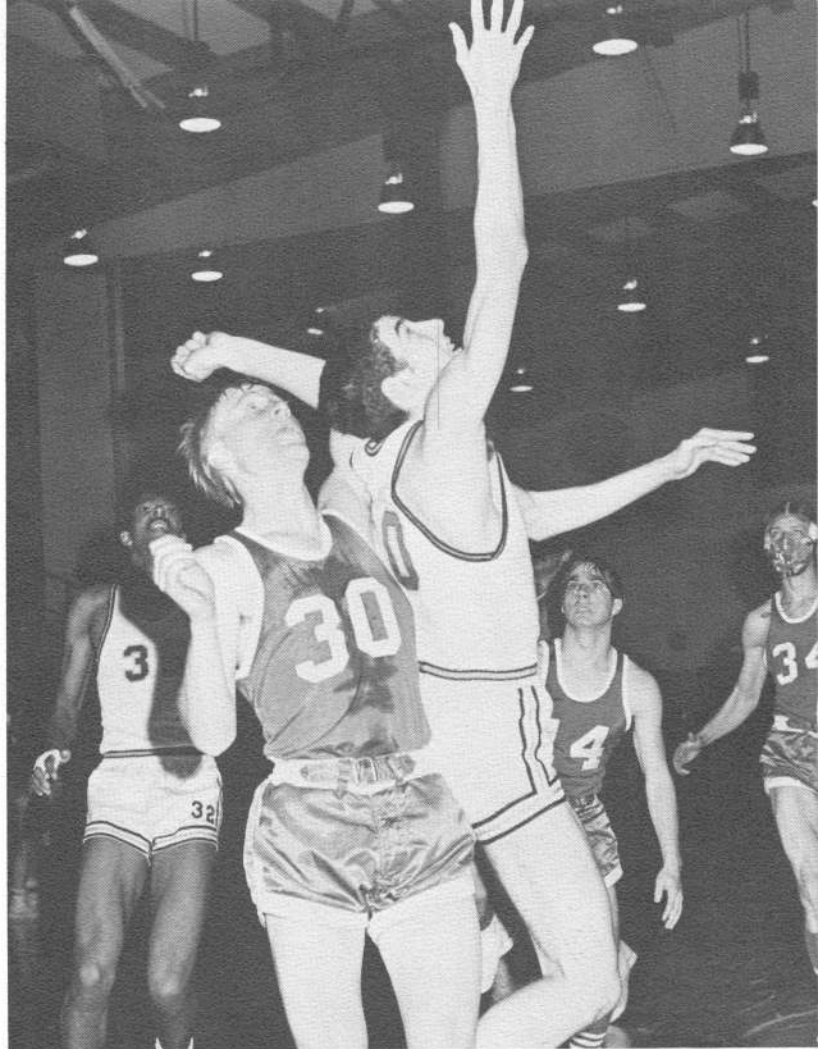

"And it's a mad scramble!" Chuck Shechtman wrestles loose from hands of Norristown defenders.

On January 2, the Panthers resumed league competition, entertaining Methacton in a home contest. The issue was never in doubt as the Chelts crushed the visiting Warriors 70-35. Three days later the hoopsters held off a rallying Upper Dublin squad in another home contest by a score of 85-75. Littlepage paced the Panther attack with 30 points and Sonny Gourley gave the Chelts additional rebounding strength in his initial starting assignment.

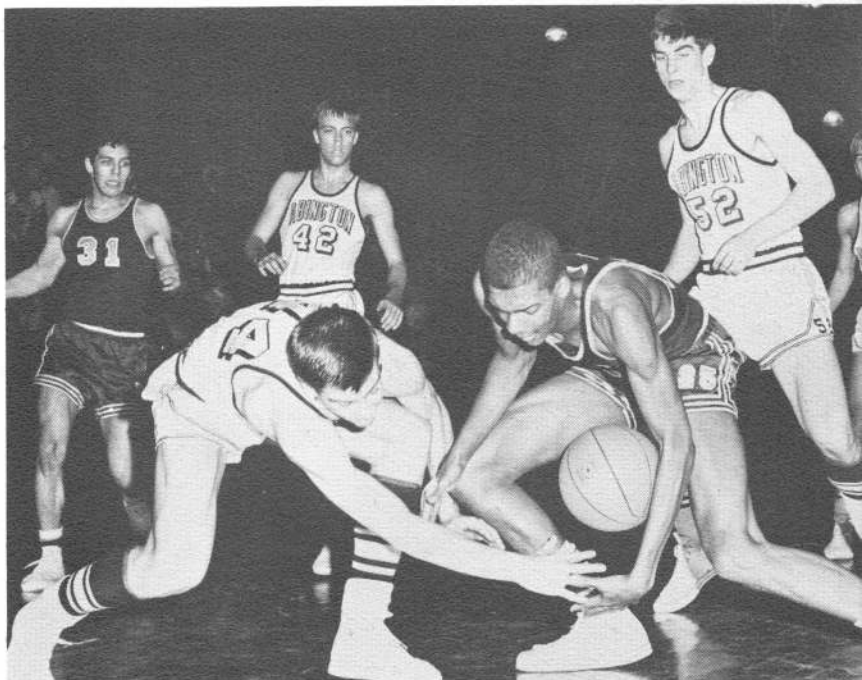

Bill Haff led all scorers with 24 points in the first meeting with arch-rival Abington as the Panthers staved off a tough Ghost aggregation by a 76-61 count. Following the Abington victory, the league-leading Chelts met Norristown on the Eagles' home floor. The game turned out to be the closest contest of the season with Rich Raden's four clutch free throws in the final 45 seconds providing a slim 61-58 Cheltenham margin.

The Norristown victory earned Cheltenham the Number 1 ranking in the Southeastern Pennsylvania Scholastic Basketball Ratings, a position they held for the remainder of the season. On January 16, the Chelts traveled to Chichester for a non-league tilt and brought home their 13th straight victory of the year, 74-60. A home-court squeaker over Upper Merion, 54-48, set the stage for a January 26 showdown with second-place Plymouth Whitmarsh. The visiting Colonials were completely outclassed by the Cheltenham machine, and fell before a capacity crowd of 2,000 cheering fans, 66-50. In their next two outings, the Panthers ran their unbeaten skein to seventeen with a 91-42 drubbing of Methacton and an 80-67 rout of the Cardinals from Upper Dublin.

With Littlepage and Haff tallying 21 points apiece, the Chelts clinched the league crown as they mowed over Abington in a home contest, 78-57. By winning the Suburban North title, the boys earned a spot in the PIAA Championship at the Palestra on February 22. The Panthers ran over their three remaining opponents: Norristown 68-55, Chichester, 83-45, and Upper Merion, 77-41, to post a regular season mark of 21 wins and no defeats.

"Reach for the sky!" Elliot Redman deposits easy lay-up in Norristown game.

"Here it is!" Craig Littlepage locates the basketball in first Abington contest.

Abington victory clinches league crown

Chelts drop State Title in overtime decision

Entering the post season PIAA championship for the first time in the school's history, Cheltenham boasted an athletic team whose caliber was second to none. School spirit rose to a fever pitch and left every fan on the edge of his seat from the opening buzzer to the waning seconds of each contest.

Cheltenham drew Lower Bucks league champ Woodrow Wilson on the first round of the State Tournament. The Panthers rode a 59% shooting clip enroute to an overwhelming 82-37 victory. Bill Haff led all scorers with 24 points while Craig Littlepage topped all rebounders with 19.

Knocking off Springfield, the Panthers advanced to the District finals versus perennial kingpin Chester, District I champions four straight years. By the time the Clippers caught their breath, the Chelts ran away with the District title by a 77-52 count.

The Panthers then traveled to Hershey to battle the aggressive Steamrollers from Steelton Highspire. The Chelts overcame a one point half-time deficit to eke out a grueling 56-53 triumph.

At the Harrisburg regional championship, the Panthers challenged powerful Allentown Dieruff for the right to represent the East in the State finals. Although the Chelts lacked their usual offensive fireworks, their defense remained strong enough for a 52-46 shading.

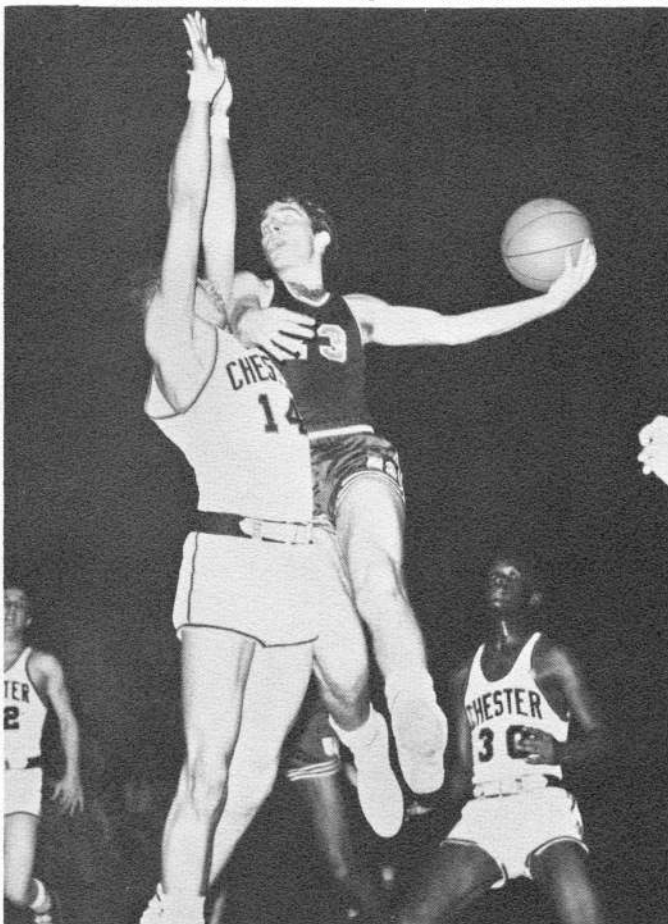

With only the last leg of the miracle season remaining, the Panthers soared to the State Finals! Their opponent from the West was mighty Laurel Highlands of Uniontown. At the end of three periods, with the score deadlocked at 37, the Panthers started to roll. However, with 3.49 left to play and the Chelts leading 50-47, disaster, in the form of Rich Raden's fifth personal foul, struck. Without Cheltenham's ace playmaker, Laurel was able to tie the score at the end of regulation time at 52 apiece. The overtime period proved no contest as the better team succumbed to Laurel 63-56.

Aquamen post 2-9 record; Kelley swims on to States

Cheltenham's aquamen, under the direction of Coach Robert Sarkisian, swam against strong competition and despite their 2-9 record, performed well. Falling to Coatsville and Woodrow Wilson, the Panthers retaliated with victories over Penn Charter and William Tennent. In league competition the Chelts suffered tough losses at the hands of Abington, Plymouth White-marsh, and Upper Merion. These setbacks ended the Panther's season.

Consistent point winners for the team included Co-Captain Bill Portner, Gerry Lebing, Mark Rappaport, Randy Raben, and Hal Shanis. Then, of course, one cannot ignore Co-Captain Dave Kelley.

Kelley, who was unbeaten in duel meet competition, took a first in the 200 yard individual medley and a second in the 400 yard freestyle. At regional competitions, he placed second in both of these events. Reaching state competition, Dave gained third place in the 200 yard individual medley and the 400 yard freestyle. Kelley was also nominated for all-state in the following three events: 200 yard individual medley, 200 yard freestyle, and the 400 yard freestyle.

For his three years of leadership, team spirit, and athletic swimming prowess, Co-Captain Bill Portner received the Holden Award, an honor bestowed on him by his teammates.

95 pounder Benjie Weinstein gains control of his Abington opponent and wins an easy match.

We're also number one! Hardwork, dedication, strength and talent were the ingredients for the success of the 1968 wrestling Panthers. Under the leadership of Coach Saltzman, the CHS matmen mixed it all together to bring home a perfect 10-0 log and their second consecutive Suburban North League Crown.

Hosting Springfield in an afternoon contest, the Grapplers opened the season. Led by Grant Grabfelder's first period pin and a fine overall effort by the lightweights, the Chelts emerged with a victorious 25-20 margin. Following the Springfield conquest, the matmen traveled to Lower Merion where they amassed four first period pins in a 32-20 trouncing of the Aces. Next, in a home meet with the Eagles of Ben Salem, the Panthers dropped but three decisions on a 32-12 rout for their third straight non-league triumph.

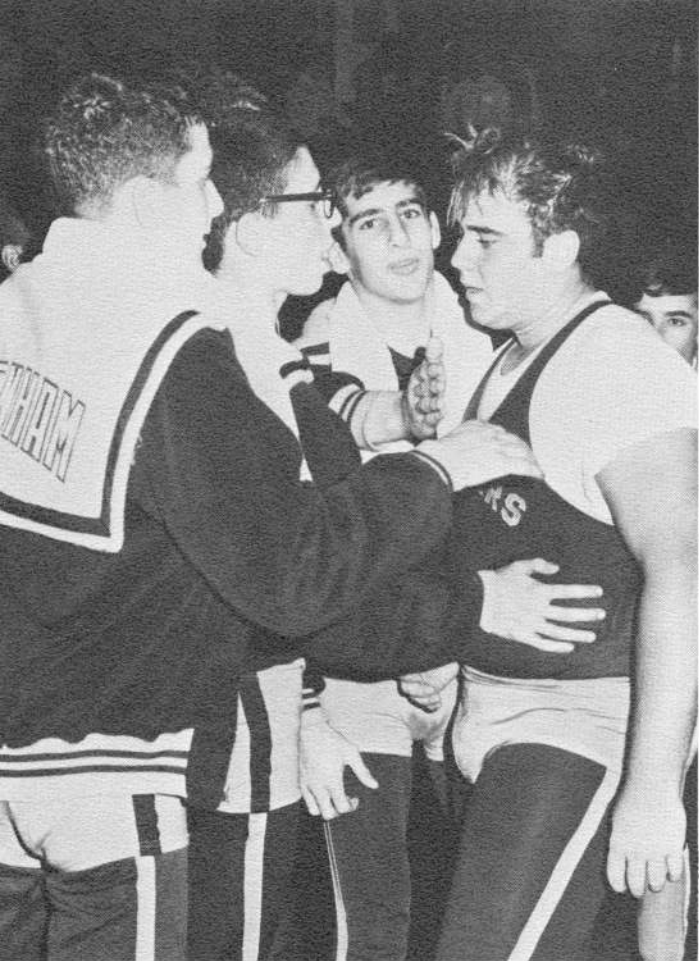

Opening the league competition, the boys avenged last season's only defeat by dumping Norristown with a 32-12 run away. The match with arch-rival Abington was next and the Grapplers—with vengeance—thumped the Ghosts with a 29-14 defeat. Highlight of the meet was Len Pelullo's pin in the 165 lb. weight class. The Panthers then gained additional league victories over Methacton and Upper Marion by scores of 27-19 and 36-15 respectively.

Benjie Weinstein and Jim Goff led the Panthers past William Tennent 35-11 in the final non-league tilt of the year. The verdict gave CHS an 8-0 record and a chance to clinch the league crown with victories over Upper Dublin. Meeting the challenge of the Cardinals, the Grapplers brought home a 34-14 decision and their second championship in two years.

Varsity Wrestling Team: Coach Saltzman, B. Weinstein, M. Gitomer, L. Sichel, P. Pelullo, G. Grabfelder, C. Dobkin, J. Goff, S. McCullough, B. Dershaw, L. Pelullo, J. Hink.

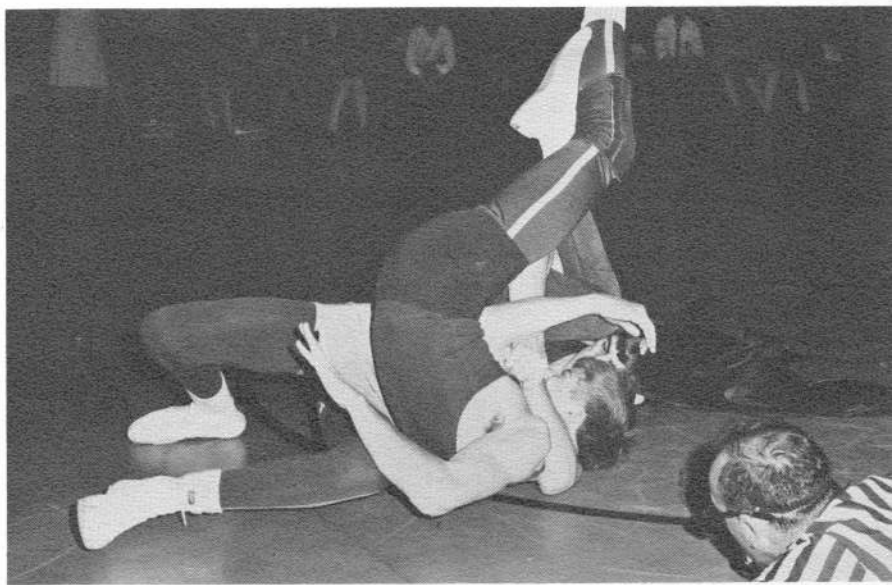

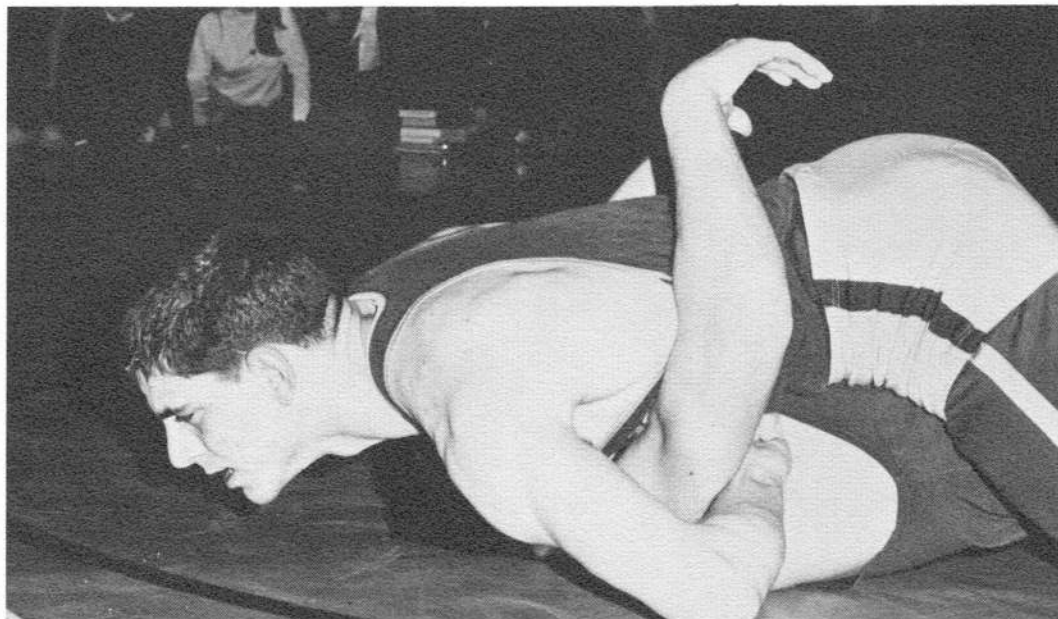

Weary John Hink receives congratulations from teammates after a grueling victory.

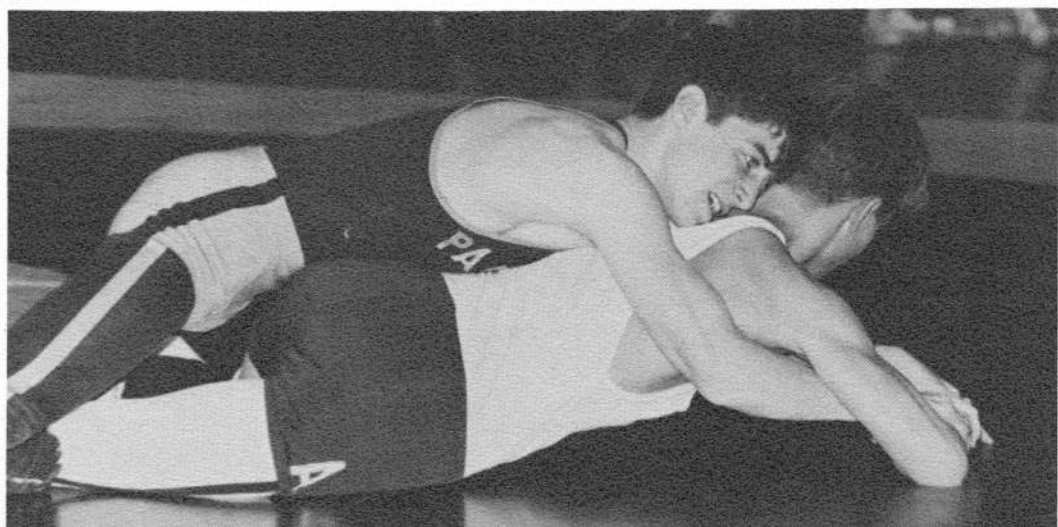

"Bottoms up!" Craig Dobkin nears a pin vs. Upper Dublin.

El Great One, alias Len Pellulo, pins another grappler for CHS.

"This is gonna hurt you more than it hurts me." Larry Sichel warns foe in victory over Abington Ghosts.

Pelullo, Weinstein win District honors-fall in Regionals

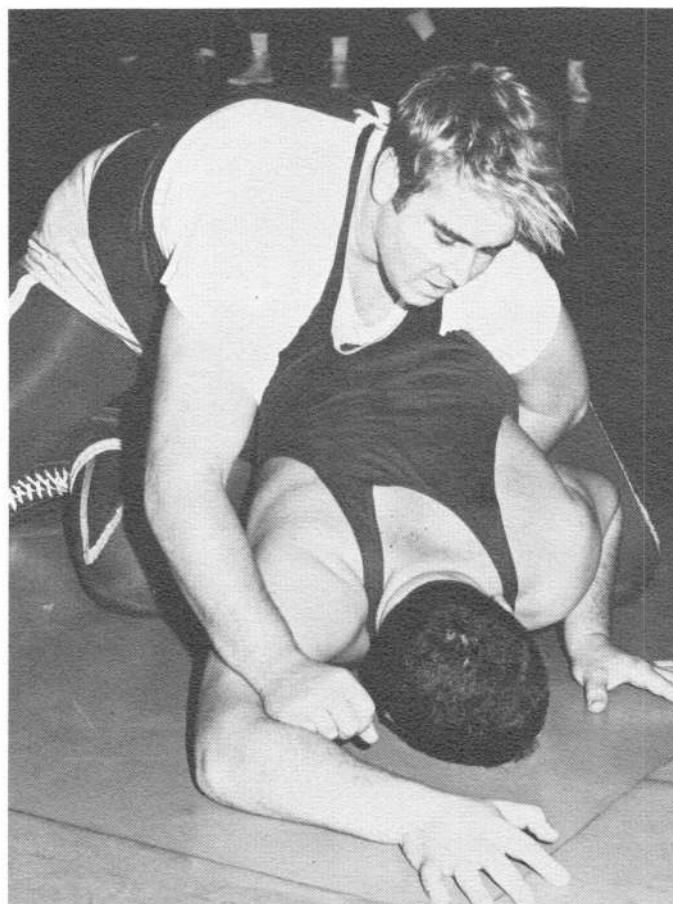

Plymouth Whitemarsh remained the final obstacle to a perfect season. Grappling for all they were worth, the matmen posted a 34-16 triumph over the Colonials and thereby climaxed an unbeaten duel-meet slate of 10 wins, no defeats. We're number one!

Among the many wrestlers compiling outstanding duel-meet records were seniors Grant Grabfelder (7-11), Larry Sichel (7-0), Craig Dobkin (6-2), Len Pelullo (10-0) and junior Benjie Weinstein (9-1). Both Pelullo and Weinstein went on to capture individual section and district crowns. However, both matmen met defeat in the regional division of the PIAA State Tournament with each grappler dropping a close decision. The annual Holden Award was presented to Craig Dobkin for his outstanding leadership and inspiration both on and off the mat.

"Squash" Heavyweight John Hink applies pressure to Upper Merion grappler.

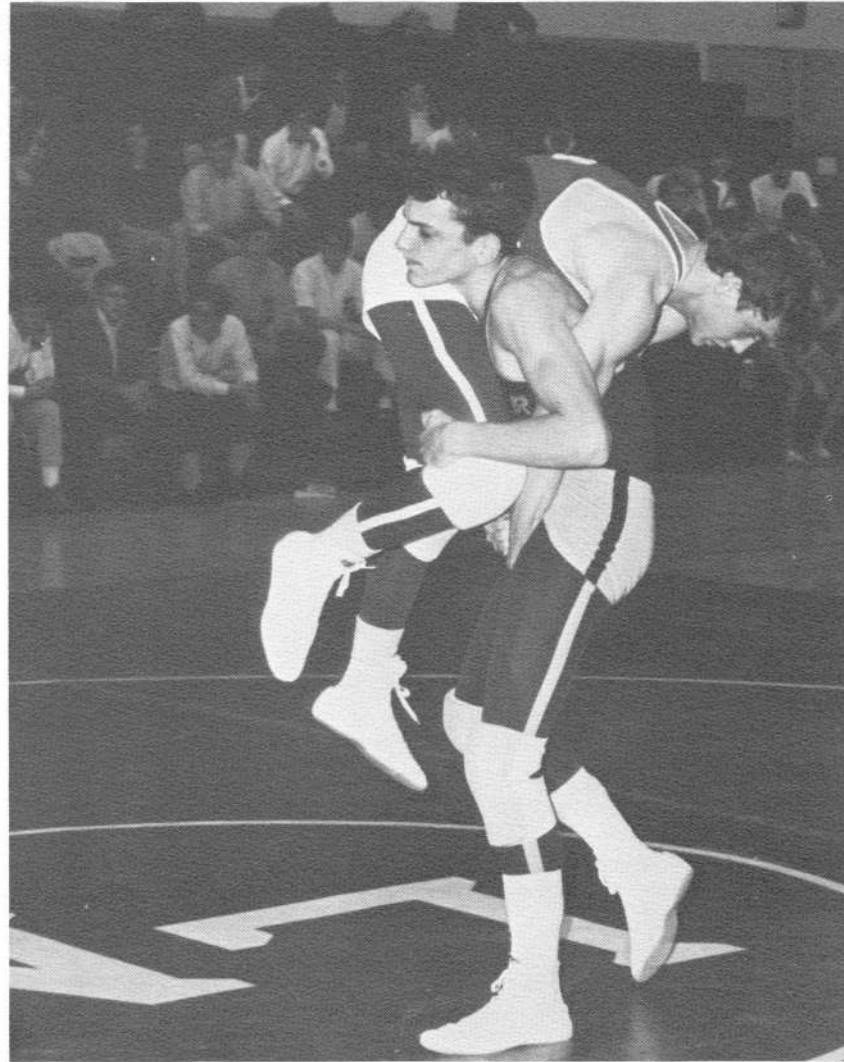

"Atta boy Lenny!" Coach Saltzman intently studies the progress of ace matman Len Pelullo.

Sophomore sensation Sam McCullough gains control of opponent in second period of Upper Merion contest.

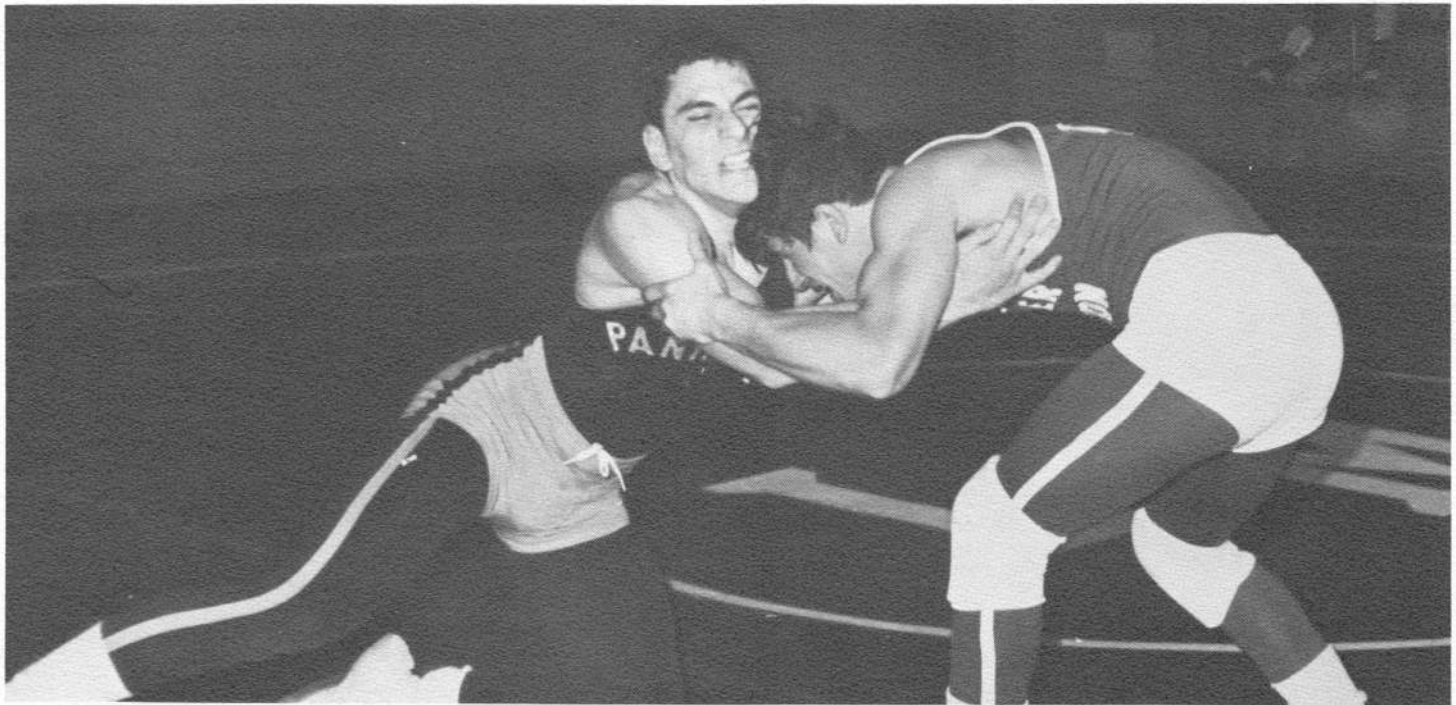

"Pick 'em up and lay 'em down," Rick Kropp applies double grapevine on Upper Merion wrestler as he nears third period pin.

Jim Goff demonstrates he's no slouch with fireman's carry of Lower Merion opponent.

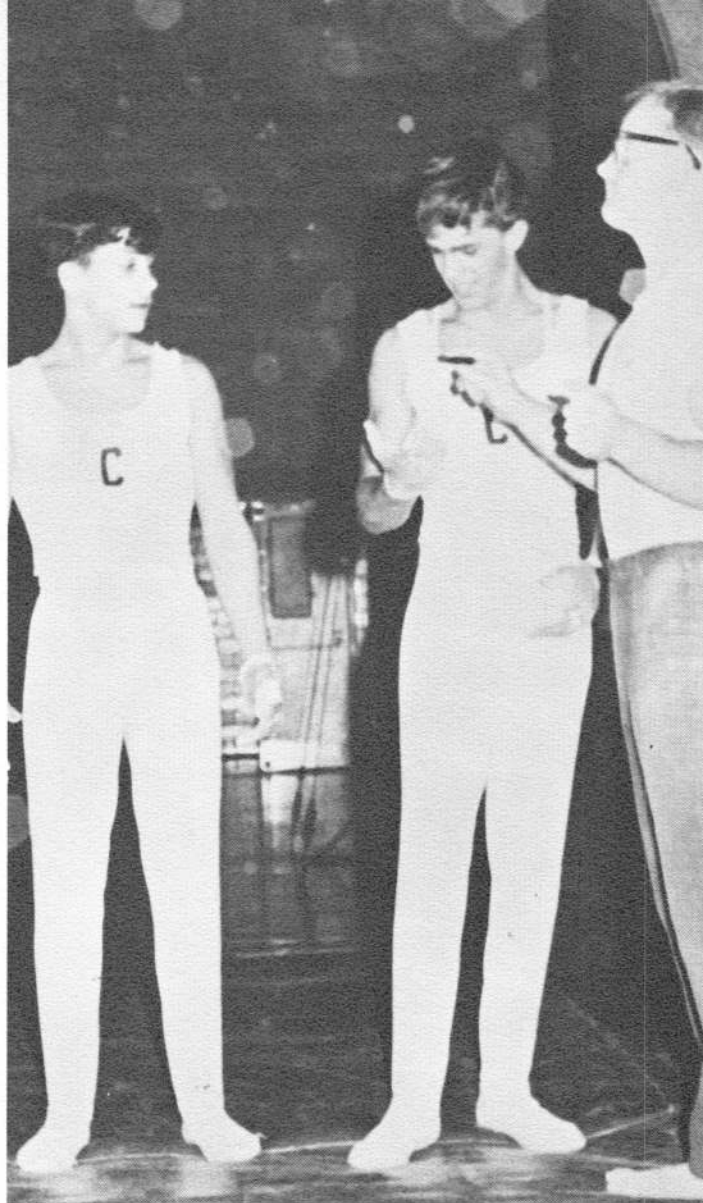

"Only 15 seconds more until I set another record," Len Pellulo closes in on pin record in first period of Lower Merion bout.

Spirit and the will to win were the building blocks of this year's Gymnastics Team. After being at the bottom of the league for their first two years, the team finally emerged victorious. Unorganized at first, the team lost to Neshaminy, their first and only defeat. Undaunted, they moved on to a triumphant 9-1 record and the status of league co-champions.

Ten outstanding seniors formed the backbone of the team. Heavy concentration of senior talent was in the free exercise event. Lead-off man was Ken Martin, followed by Bob Lipsey and anchor man Jim Pavlovich, who went through the season without a single major break, and qualified for districts. The side horse team was led by Dave Polish, who easily qualified for districts. Outstanding backup men Steve Halbert and Lorenzo Gillette took many second and third places in duel meets. The horizontal bar event was covered by all-around performer Al LeCoff and team captain Rande McNamee. Both used high caliber routines with great precision. Backed by junior star Dan Radell, this was an extremely strong event. Outstanding in the long horse event were seniors Jim Pavlovich, Al LeCoff, and junior Mike Radell, who qualified for districts. Parellel bars were allegedly the weak event; however, many consistent performances by Nick Lindabury, Rande McNamee, Dave Polish, and Al LeCoff helped the team save some difficult meets. Still ring star Steve Weiss came through with many first place performances, backed by muscle man Ken Ulansey and Al LeCoff.

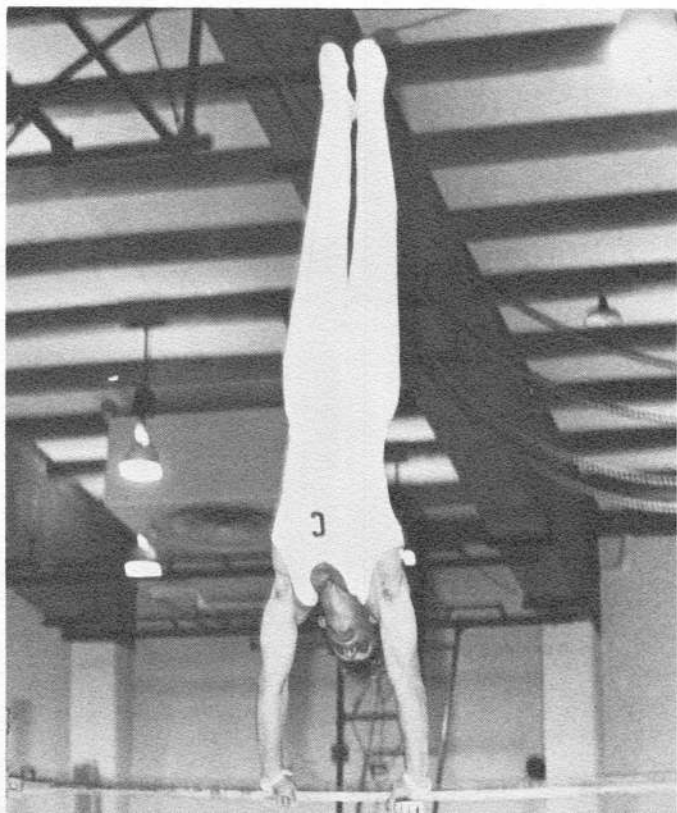

Under the direction of Coach Leonard DePue, this year's team set the pace for winning gymnastics at Cheltenham. For his consistent all-around performance, Albert LeCoff was selected by the team to receive the coveted Holden Award in gymnastics.

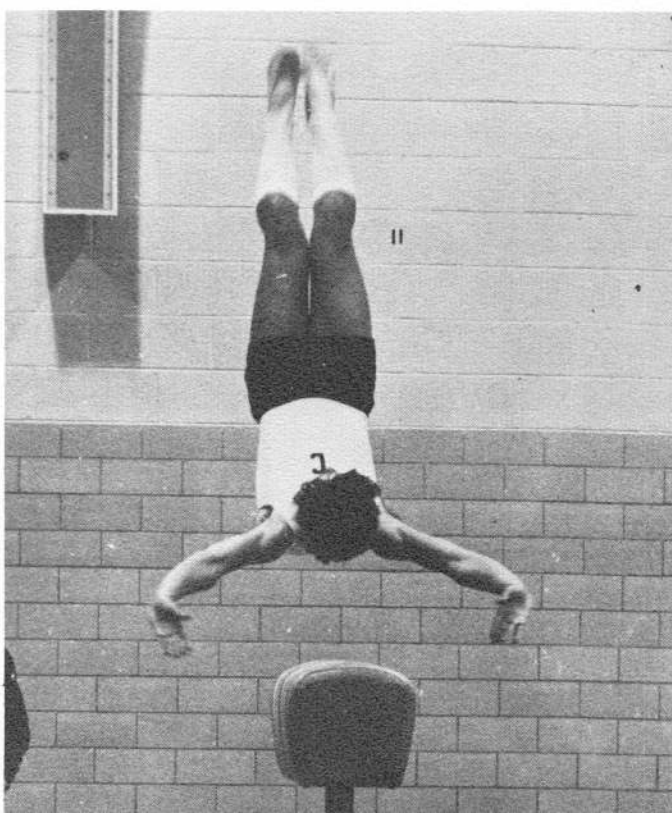

"Use Pacquins hand cream. . . ." Coach DePue warns Al LeCoff and Rande McNamee about ripped and blistered hands before the Abington meet.

Gymnasts vault to co-champs-post 9-1 slate

"It's the best high yet." Team Captain Rande McNamee stretches for extra points during Woodrow Wilson meet.

"Up, up and away!" Jim Pavlovich shows high flying form on Yamasheta vault.

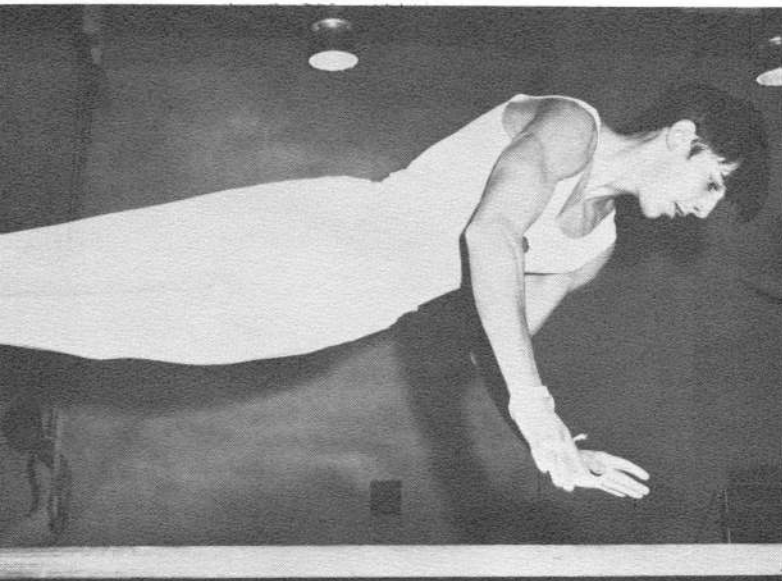

"Newton was wrong!" Steve Weiss crosses up team with his ring routine.

"Hurry up and take it—I can't hold this forever!" Team cut up and horse champ Dave Polish demonstrates scissors.

"It's the old levitation trick." Nick Lindabury throws a stiz turn on the parallel bars.

Girl aquanauts splash way to 5 big victories

Compiling a record of 5-5 by beating Lower Moreland and William Tennent twice and Bishop McDevitt once, Mrs. Dando's mermaids did themselves proud this year. Highlighting the season was the team's 59-18 splashing romp over Lower Moreland. The fastest swimmer on the team was Marla Rappaport, a ninth-grader. The freestyle relay team, consisting of Barbara Pollard, Gail Winter, Jenny Doolittle, and Marla Rappaport, finished off the season with an outstanding performance in the district competitions.

Despite extra valiant effort, Mrs. Lonsinger's girls' basketball team suffered total defeat this year. However, they did not let this dampen their spirits. Scoring a total of sixty-eight points, Captain Leslie Garson was the best offensive player on the team while Junior Lynda Beadle made her mark as the best defensive player by accumulating seventy-seven rebounds. In recognition of her consistent effort and team spirit, Leslie Garson was chosen to receive the coveted Holden Award.

Bathing beauties wait turn in diving competition.

Leila Stout and Patty Waldow prepare for flying take-off.

Trackmen run through winter in search of spring

The Winter Track Team, primarily a training squad for the spring track season, experienced a highly successful campaign. Highlights of the season were Jon Solomon's 50'2" shotput at Franklin Field, Larry Cramer's 6.6 second 60 yard dash at the Delaware Meet of Champions, and Jim Pavlovich's 13' polevault, also at the Delaware meet.

Golfers swing into '68 season

Jay Muller, junior Howie Rodstein, and seniors Ed Kaufman and Ken Matusow.

The team opened its season with a tie versus Springfield on April 1, and will compete in duel meets through May 23. Home ground will be Ashbourne Country Club.

The CHS Golf Team, under the leadership of Coach Ralph Garreth, enters its long campaign with an excellent combination of veterans and young stars. Andy Goldman, last season's top point maker, returns as first man, while senior Curt Shalo is number two. The remainder of the squad is composed of ninth grader

After three championship years which include two state champions, the Cheltenham Tennis Team has earned the reputation of being the state's best tennis team. Led by Harold Gerber and Leslie Garson, the team is looking forward to another championship season. Following Gerber and Garson are Rande Rapoport, Wendy Wallner, Mark Tarlow, Pat Waldow, Gary Fleet, Harriet Dunn, Bob Freedman, Diane Berinson, and Barry Schwartz, who round out the varsity. Under fine coaching of Mr. Fleegler and Miss Redford, the 1968 Tennis Team hopes to carry on the proud tradition of tennis victories at Cheltenham High School.

Raquetteers love 'em and leave 'em

Returning veterans bolster baseball pennant hopes

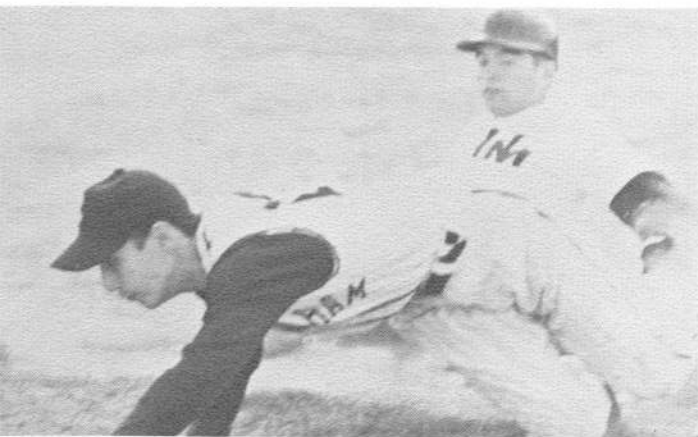

"Coach says tomorrow we'll try it with a real ball." Jim Voight and Denny Randolph exchange views on Mr. Mehelich's latest decision.

Cheltenham enters the 1968 baseball campaign with a solid corps of returning veterans and a host of talented newcomers. With such a combination on hand, Coach Charles Mehelich expects a winning season and a possible suburban championship in the offing.

The infield boasts a peerless quartet of senior glove-men, led by power-hitting shortstop Bob Dooley. Eric Matzkin, last season's top hitter, holds down first base while scrappy Bill Haff is at second with Dean Avilla covering the hot corner at third. The catching chores will be divided between junior Denny Randolph and senior Jim Voight. The pitching staff is anchored by a trio of fast-balling seniors, Gary Brown, Bob Schultz, and Barry Koffler. In the outfield, sophomore sensation Joe Sciolla is the center fielder, with sure-armed Joe Greger in right and fleet-footed Benny Dempsey in left. Providing the bench strength for this year's squad will be outfielders Mike Cichetti, Bob McCluskey, and Lou Rubino, and infielder Mike Hollander.

The team opened its season on a triumphant note by downing Lincoln 4-3 in an away contest on April 2.

Dean Avilla completes first part of Panther double play.

Hawk-eyed Coach Mehelich studies the action of an early season contest.

Cindermen prepare to run for the Hills

With many of last season's top stars returning, Coaches Richard Hoffman and Andy Hills looked forward to the 1968 campaign with hopes of improving on the 4-5 log of a year ago. Leading the sprinting contingent of the squad is junior flash Larry Cramer, followed closely by senior Bates Mandell and junior Eric Shore. Handling the middle distance chores will be senior Captain Chris Perry and half mile specialist Steve Beadling, while brother Wes Beadling remains top man on the mile event. The gruelling two mile boasts the hard working Phil Mirrel with senior Sid Milkis, also seeing plenty of action in the distance contests.

The field events will likewise be well stocked with senior Jon Solomon heading the shot and discus corps. Backing up Solomon will be senior Mark Mann and junior John Adams. In the javelin, senior Tom Reifsnyder can hurl with the best of them. Jim Pavlovitch can vault as high as any pole-vaulter around. Performing on the high jump is junior Craig Littlepage, while senior Joel Benn excels on the long jump.

Add to their experience many talented sophomores, and the Panthers show the makings of an excellent squad. The team opens its season at home against Plymouth Whitemarsh on April 10.

Big John Adams prepares for mighty heave of shot put.

Track Team: Bottom Row: A. Washington, S. Beadling, M. Mann, J. Solomon, S. Weiss, M. Shaw, J. Benn, S. Milkis, C. Perry, B. Mandell, P. Murrell, W. Beadling, E. "You should have seen James Brown do this step." Jon Solomon puts the shot over 50 feet!

"You play the bush, Carolyn, we'll be the trees." Cheerleaders bolster spirit at home football game.

Sirens of Greek mythology had a way of forcing mortals to do their bidding. In many ways Cheltenham's cheerleaders are reminiscent of these ancient nymphs, for they likewise use all of their charm, persuasiveness, and vocal power to entice CHS's student support and encourage their teams onward to greater glory. Led by queen siren Caroline Miller, the seventeen member cheerleading squad brought school spirit to unprecedented heights this year as Cheltenham emerged first in many major competitions. Undaunted by snow, rain, or fierce opposition, they assumed their posts in front of the stands at all sports events, and like the sirens of the rocks, drew their audiences into the fray. Recognizable in their gold and blue mini-skirted outfits, they proudly represented the school at all athletic functions and kept alive the equal importance of each team.

"Hey, when's half time?" Cheerleaders impatiently await game intermission.

AREOPAGITES

Contemporary examples of the Greek ideal are found everywhere in the Senior Class. The Greek Areopagus was a tribunal body. If the ultimate aim of education is to produce citizens capable of making reasonable judgements and decisions, then Chelt Seniors are contemporary Areopagites: they listen, absorb, interpret, create; there are no limits to their learning, for they strive to excel in all areas.

Able to convey the knowledge they have gained, seniors set an example for those who will soon replace them as school leaders. They are both scholars and athletes who have a keen sense of responsibility to their fellow students. Seniors are committed to the continuous progress of learning and have the courage to follow their convictions. A hint of restlessness, a tone of seriousness, a spurt of comic relief have made their experiences here precious. The Greeks would be proud of the Cheltenham senior, for he is scholar, athlete, politician, artist, and citizen combined.
